HERITAGE HIGH SCHOOL

Lynchburg, Virginia 24502

BEGINNING AT THE BEGINNING

In January of 1975 a steering committee was appointed to begin making decisions involving a new high school in Lynchburg. The school would be needed if the proposed annexation passed. It did, and Heritage High School became a necessity.

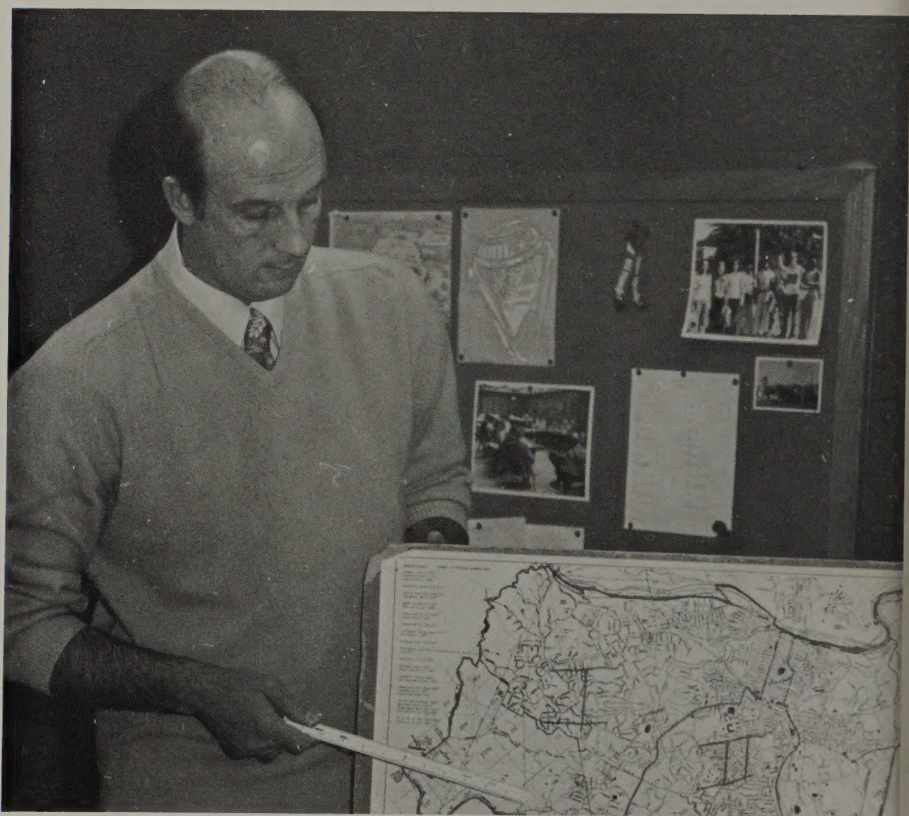

While we were temporarily housed in Sandusky Junior High School, the job of "building a heritage" paralleled that of building Heritage High School.

Getting ready for school's opening was the first order of business, and Dr. Swisher and his staff worked throughout the summer on the many details involved.

Teacher and classroom assignments, relocation of materials, student scheduling—all set the groundwork for "building a heritage."

Unpacking new equipment was one of many jobs undertaken by Mr. Spencer and Mr. Clark during the summer.

Responsible for incorporating students from the annexed areas into the city school system, Dr. Swisher studies map showing rezoning.

3 Steps in

moved, unpacked, or stored most of the textbooks needed for the school year.

Building a Heritage

Feelings of "new school loneliness" were shared by Yvette Isaacs and 1285 other students.

STARTING OUT ALL ALONE

Doors opened and in we came, scared and lonely. During the first few weeks, one could sense an air of uncertainty. No one knew what to expect of this new school we were now attending. Few faces were familiar as we went our individual ways.

The building itself was a maze to most of us. We had days of being lost, arriving late to class, and missing lunch. But soon we unraveled the tangle of hallways and classrooms; strangers became friends, and the school seemed full to the brim with high hopes for the year to come.

Thoughts of past years still lingered in everyone's mind. But now the E.C. Glass Hilltoppers, Brookville Bees, Rustburg Red Devils, and Dunbar Poets were all scrambled together to form one mighty Heritage Pioneer.

We were faced with the problem of "building a heritage," and we suddenly felt ready for the challenge.

GETTING IT TOGETHER

As the weeks turned into months, we no longer thought of "building a heritage" as a task, but rather as an honor.

While the teams enjoyed victories, as well as suffered defeats, and our classwork became more demanding, we began to feel a sense of pride. We found ourselves involved, expectant, and determined to make this new school not one of the best, but THE best.

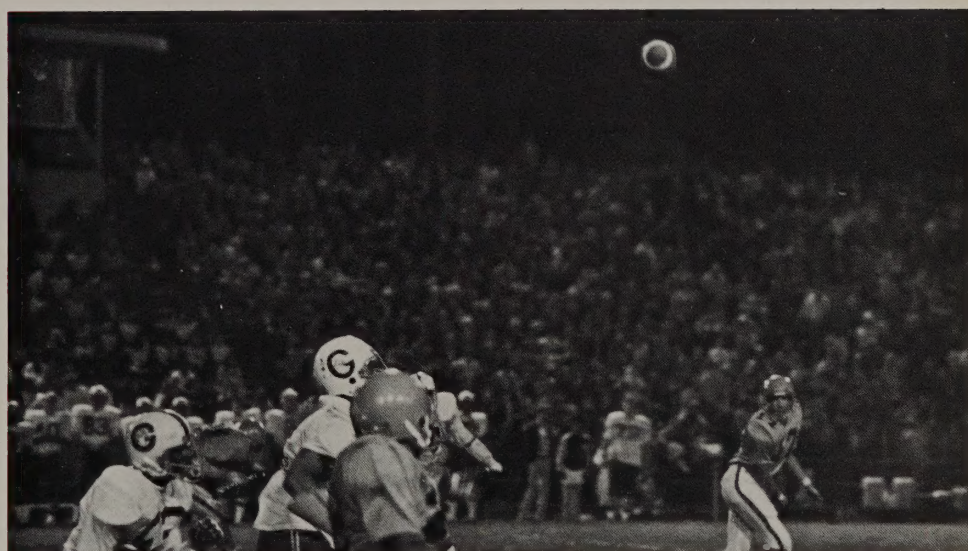

And to everyone attending and supporting the school, that's exactly what it was becoming. The "heritage" of Heritage High School was in the making.

STUDENT LIFE

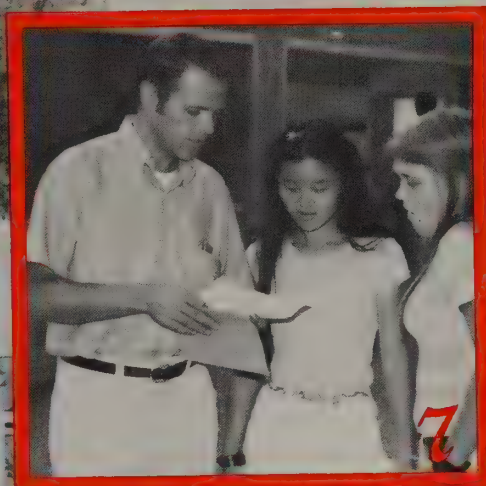

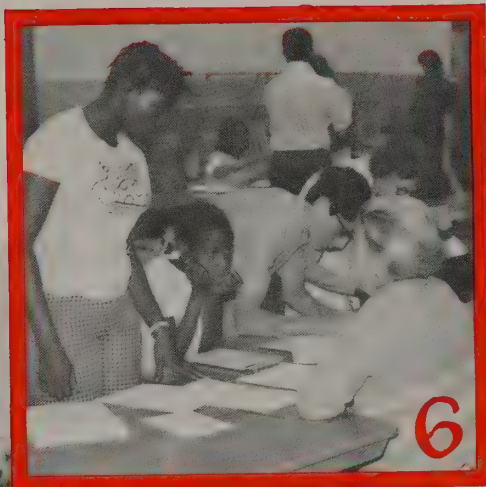

"School!" Many of us found it hard to give up summer luxuries. One such luxury everyone loves, including Cara Marshall (1), is the joy of sleeping late. But there are ways of catching a few "extra winks." Other memories of summer fun linger. For Kathy Hatcher (2) a day at the lake is a pleasant summer day. Then there is Annette Logwood (3) who thinks back to fast-moving summer sports. Robin Marsh (4) will argue that that's not the only way to enjoy a hot summer day. And Pat Donahue (5), not satisfied with staying on the water, has summer memories of challenging feats. But these summer pleasures were given up, and students came to register (6) for the coming year. In trying to find classrooms, some required help such as Mr. Coates gave Unchu Mayo and Denise Bosiger (7). After registering, Susan Elliott and Beth Smoot (8) decide that it wasn't so bad after all. There's much to be said for the joys of summer, but there's just as much to be said for the activities of a school year.

AUGUST 30

Goodbye Summer . . . Hello School

Off To A Good Start

We began with nothing more than a temporary school building and a few ideas. There were so many things we needed to accomplish. We took them, one by one, as they presented themselves to us and did our best to make wise decisions that would carry on as part of our school.

NAME THE SCHOOL

“We propose Heritage High School as a fitting name for the city’s newest secondary building. This name shall call to mind both the pride in achievements in the past and shall hold forth a challenge for greater progress in the future.” With this announcement, the special School Board Committee named Heritage High.

CHOOSE THE RING

In November of 1976 part of the Heritage High School Steering Committee merged with other students to form a class ring committee. Guided by Dr. Swisher, the students chose Josten’s to design and make the ring. After discussions over some details of design, the committee decided on a ring to be proud of.

SELECT THE COLORS

Election of the school colors was the responsibility of a student advisory committee, consisting of representatives from Glass, Brookville, Dunbar, Sandusky, and Rustburg—the schools from which students would come to Heritage. After deliberation, the committee announced that our school colors would be blue, burnt orange, and white.

Final proof-reading for first edition of PIONEER POST requires attention of Eddie Mayhew, Mrs. Smith, and Robin Hamlett.

Student Advisory Committee members: Cynthia Cash, Gwen Hale, Conya McRight, Machel Penn, Garrett Nelson, Lee Saunders, Richard Harris, and Dalany Brown.

First Marching Band trophies, won at Indian River Marching Contest, are displayed by band's officers.

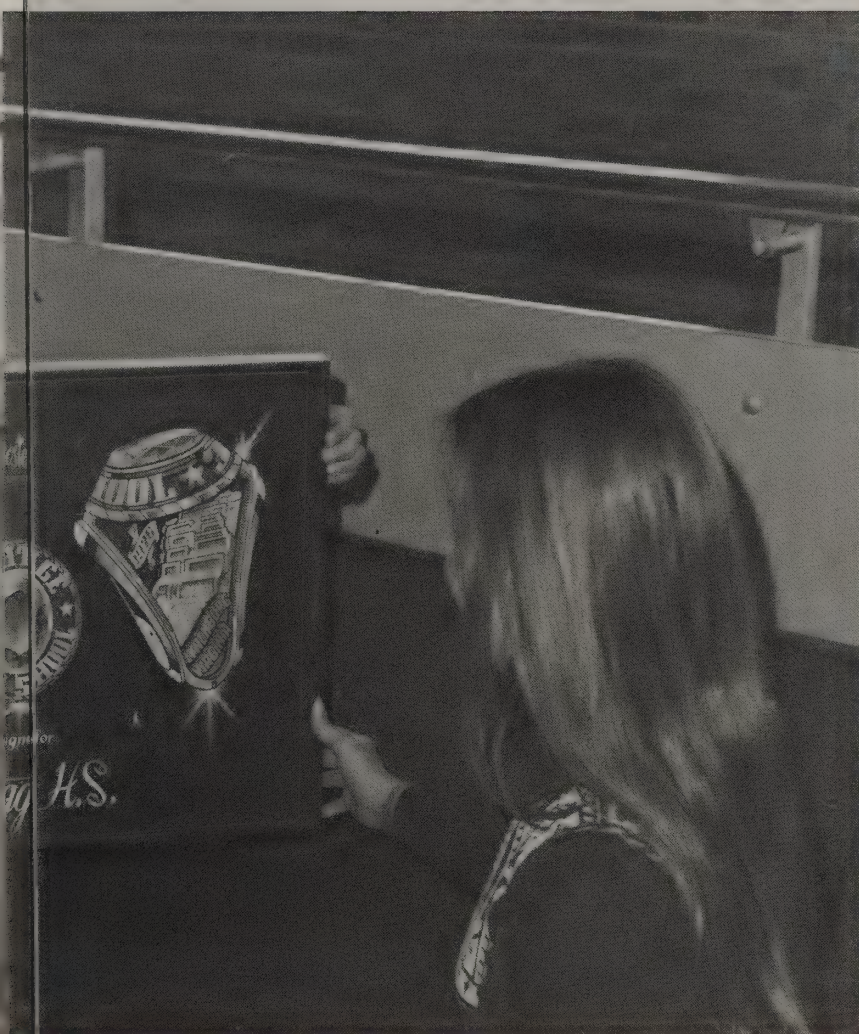

Ring design chosen by committee meets with approval of Martha Williams and Cynthia Cash.

NAME THE PAPER

By early October almost everything was "ready to go" with the school paper. The staff had been formed and trained; printing arrangements were complete; first edition assignments had been made. But it was still without a name. Suggestions were made and voted on. Sheena Jennings submitted the winning name, PIONEER POST, and she has received free papers throughout the year as her prize.

NAME THE TEAMS

The Student Advisory Committee also chose the team name. They decided that the name should have a direct relationship to the school's name "Heritage." Many names were considered. Some were eliminated because they were names used by other Western District schools. After much deliberation the committee decided upon "Pioneers" as a fitting name.

OFF TO

Year Of Firsts

Unpacking new band uniforms seems more a pleasure than a chore for Danny Tucker and Mr. Elrod.

SELECT A MASCOT

Deciding on what to call all of our organizations, teams, and activities presented quite a challenge. We were very conscious of setting precedents. Each event throughout the year was a "first" and we strived for each to set a standard of excellence. As the year progressed, we became increasingly proud of our choices. We responded quickly to the new but familiar sound of "Pioneer." We could now call groups by their names without hesitation; we felt at home with our choices.

In October, the FBLA decided it was time for a school mascot. Entries were submitted by students, and the ideas of the ideal pioneer ranged from astronauts to orange ducks. After two weeks, students voted in homerooms among the thirty-one entries. Tom Tucker's entry, a blue and orange old-time pioneer with a rifle and a coonskin cap, was chosen as the best personification of the pioneer spirit.

CHOOSE A UNIFORM

Mr. Swisher, Mr. Elrod, and selected parents and students determined the design of the marching band's uniforms. They adopted a design used by one of the leading drum and bugle corps in the United States. The style of marching reflects the style of the uniform, both known as "corp style." The concert band has a separate formal jacket, which also depicts this style.

Choir members Kent Wood, Susan Weaver, and Sheletta Smith practice for first performance, the Christmas Concert.

First Heritage touchdown is scored by Ricky Callinder on an option which covered 35 yards against Amherst.

History students Laurie Mason, Glee Nowlan, and Lisa Stauber discuss campaign issues.

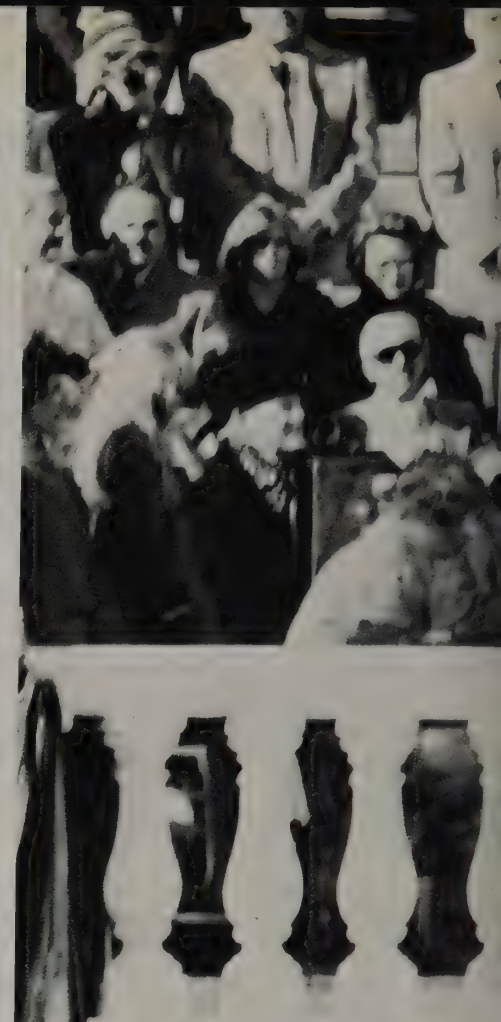

Election '76

In November two men ran a race for the job of leading our country, Gerald R. Ford, a Republican, and Democrat Jimmy Carter. And the votes of our country's people would decide who the 39th President of the United States would be.

Since such a decision would affect and influence our country, didn't it concern the students of Heritage High School? Mrs. Hatcher, sponsor for Heritage's Distributive Education Club, thought so. She and the D.E. Club held a "mock" election to find out just how many students would vote and, of course, whom they would vote for.

In homeroom students were given "ballots" and were told to vote for the president and vice president of their choice. Nine hundred seventy students voted, with Gerald R. Ford, winning by a 111 vote margin over Jimmy Carter.

Icy Grip Hits School

Brrr! You shiver in the freezing classroom. Everywhere you hear the sound of chattering teeth. You huddle deeper into your two sweaters and move a little closer to the radiator.

All over the U.S. this winter thermostats were lowered to a chilly 65 degrees, after school activities were kept at a minimum, and nothing went on after 5:30.

Teachers and students began to dress like eskimos on a seal hunt. Thick, heavy sweaters and flannel shirts were a necessary part of everyone's wardrobe.

Then, the expected happened. Lynchburg reached its all-time low of -8 degrees. Temperatures throughout the Northeast were the coldest since Colonial days.

We survived the incredible cold; businesses and schools reopened; things went on as before. But the big freeze gave the U.S. memories not easily forgotten.

Checking the thermostats at 65 degrees, Rhonda Martin and Jay Harding aren't convinced to go without coats.

Tennis shoes aren't the best protection against the cold snow, and Gerald Scruggs is just beginning to realize it.

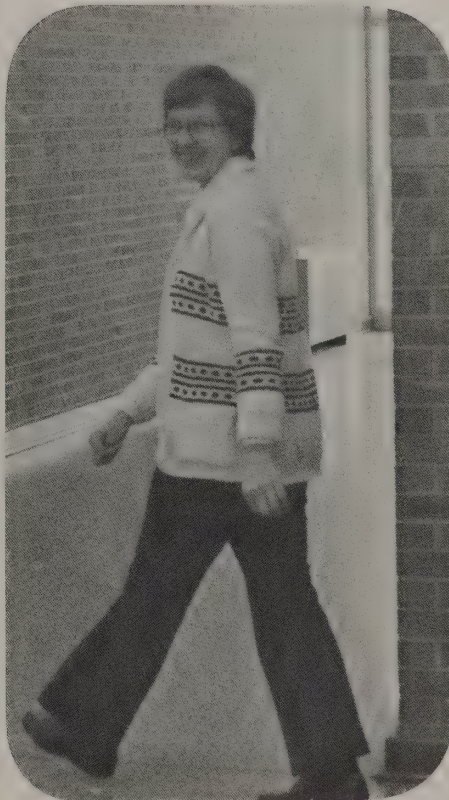

Heritage students take advantage of the first snow with a friendly snowball battle.

Desperate for warmth, Sharon Emmett finds about the only warm place in Heritage—the radiator.

As long as she is bundled up in a thick winter sweater, Mrs. Godsey doesn't seem bothered by the low temperatures.

Heritage Holidays

Holidays just didn't roll by unnoticed at Heritage. There were numerous festivities covering the major holidays.

During the "season to be jolly," the SCA and chorus were really in the Christmas spirit. The SCA sponsored a contest for first period classes to decorate their doors, and it became quite a challenge.

Mrs. Currence's class won with a detailed replica of a fireplace decorated for Christmas.

The cafeteria looked "Christmasy" with a big tree, decorated by the chorus and used for their Christmas concert.

Students showed their affection on Valentine's Day by sending carnations to "special" friends. The SCA and DECA both sold the flowers, and they were delivered during first period on that special day.

And the Easter Rabbit didn't pass us by, either. DECA sponsored an Easter egg hunt for the Sandusky elementary kindergarten children. An Easter egg hunt isn't complete without a rabbit, so Bucky Scott obliged, and the legendary rabbit delighted the children with his presence.

Holidays were not only noticed, they were celebrated to the fullest. Everyone took part in the happy occasions which made them seem even better.

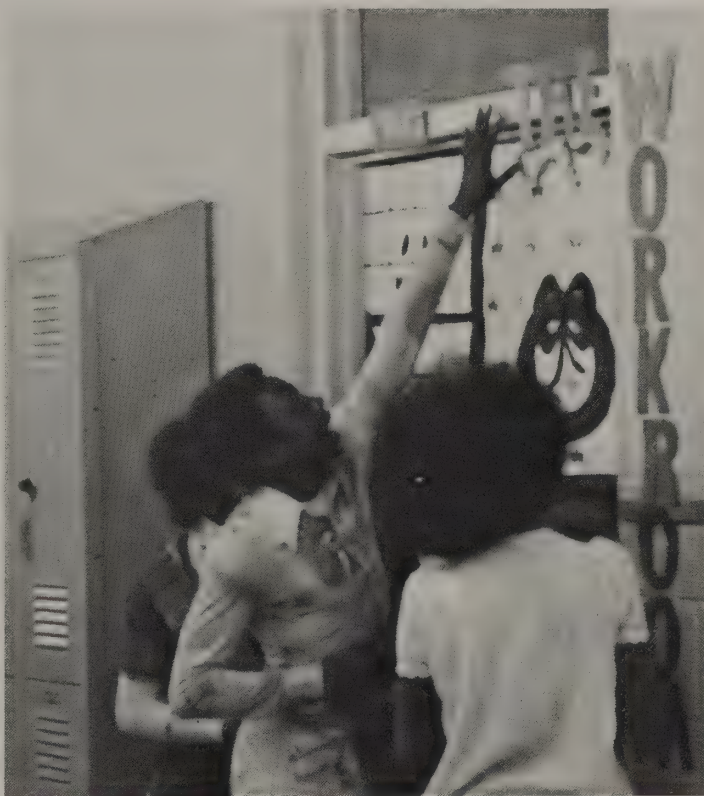

Children gather around Bucky Scott as he hands out candy at the DECA Easter egg hunt.

Christmas spirit heightens as Ricky Moore and Tina Clark trim the front lobby tree.

Mrs. Knight's door becomes entrance to Santa's workroom as students add final touches.

"Sweetheart" carnations, admired by Steve Martin, make a happy Valentine for Sandy Stewart.

We even had a leprechaun, Brian Held, on hand for St. Patrick's Day.

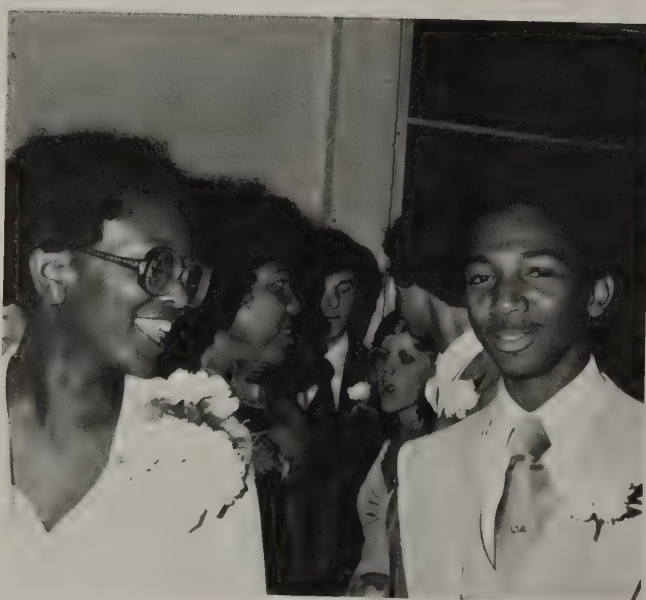

Can't Stop Dancin'

Ideas, committee meetings, telephone calls, and overall enthusiasm turned into dances!

Heritage students found themselves dancing the year away. The Varsity Club had a dance after a Saturday school session in early spring. There was a Booster's Club dance, and a marathon dance. The marathon, sponsored by DECA and held at Glass, helped raise money for muscular dystrophy research.

The biggest dancing event was the Ring Dance. Honoring juniors and their dates, the dance was held in the well-decorated cafetorium. An appropriate theme, "We've Only Just Begun," music by The Spiral Staircase, and a great turn-out made the dance the success everyone had anticipated.

As Dr. Swisher gets into the swing with Martha Robertson at the Ring Dance, David Proffit looks on.

While waiting to have their Ring Dance pictures made, Afulueno Ebo and Dalany Brown have time for jokes.

Many students, including Kelly Crawford, enjoy the Saturday afternoon Varsity Dance.

Tired but still dancing, Neva Franklin and Denise Bosiger keep on keeping on at the marathon dance.

After nine hours of marathon dancing, John Pryor and Kathy Melvin look surprisingly fresh.

Seniors are the backbone of school spirit—especially for a new senior high school. They are important because they set examples for the other students. But we had no seniors to lead us, so we did it on our own.

Not having seniors to “pave the way” for freshman, sophomore, and junior classes did not dampen the enthusiasm of the Pioneers at pep rallies and athletic events. We kept right on cheering and doing a good job of it.

Climaxing the spirit and unity that had been building throughout the year was Spirit Week, sponsored by the Forensic Club and held from May 16-20.

BUT . . . We Have Spirit

During that week a spirit chain competition was held for the three classes. For five cents, a link was added to the chain of the donator's class. The Freshman Class won with a total of 720 links, while the Sophomore and Junior classes tied with 574 links each.

Another event of Spirit Week was an essay contest won by tenth grader Lauretta Rousseau. The assigned topic of the essays was “What School Spirit Means To Me.”

On Wednesday of Spirit Week, everyone was supposed to wear the school colors, orange and blue. Those who did received special privileges, such as being allowed to break in the lunch lines.

Establishing school spirit was another of the achievements of the year that is a building block of Heritage.

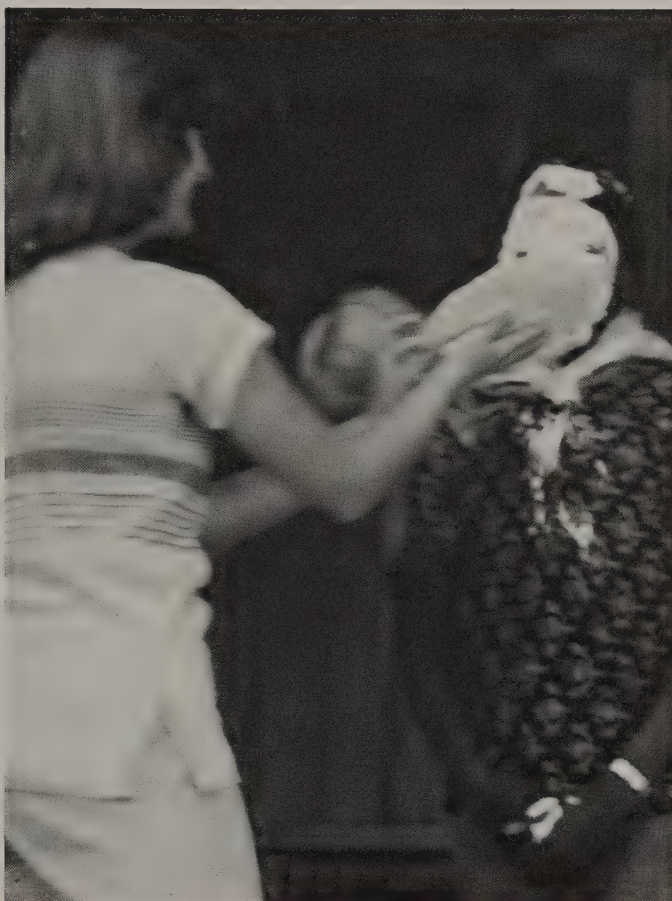

Pep rally inspires football team members to lead the gang in spirit.

Freshman Kevin Lovelace studies the spirit chains, satisfied that his class is winning.

Pie in the face—with everyone in the cafeteria watching! This was one of the penalties of losing the spirit chain competition, and junior Keith Crews falls victim to Linda Nixon, representing the Freshman Class.

Head cheerleaders, Linda Brooks from Heritage and Leigh Reir from Glass, enjoy friendly chat during game between top city rivals.

As the spirit builds at a pep rally, Jackie Alexander, Angie Guy, Wilma Early, and Charallice Moore get caught up in the excitement.

Heritage Hall Of Fame

We have many school favorites, and it was a hard job selecting our "Hall of Fame." Yet as part of the Forensic Club Spirit Week, we did choose our superstars.

Who was the craziest in the school? The best looking? After much consideration, each student submitted his own list of favorites. The tallying of these ballots provided nominees for each category.

When the time came for the voting, there was even more excitement. Each student was super-curious as to who would make our "Hall of Fame."

Names were finally announced. We had chosen our superstars. The guy and girl in each category weren't just names on a list, they were really "the best" as far as the student body was concerned!

Wittiest: Kelly Crawford, Tracy Sublett.

Most Scholarly: David Profitt, Machel Penn.

Most Likely to Succeed: Rudy Beverly, Linda Nixon.

Best Looking: Dickie Burge, Beth Padgett.

Most School Spirited: Lynda Brooks, Dalany Brown.

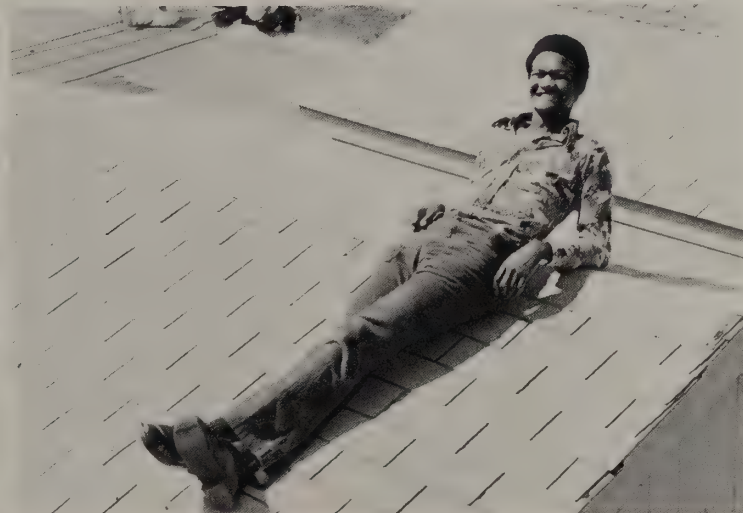

Most Athletic: Dennis Knight, Meredith White.

Friendliest: Dave Knowles, Annette Logwood.

Most Popular: Susan Smith, Lee Saunders.

Craziest: Robin Metts.

Craziest: Lawrence Shearer.

June 14 Goodbye School . . . Hello Summer

By the time June rolled around, spring fever had become unbearable. Everyone anxiously awaited the sun-filled days out of doors and, even more impatiently, the end of school.

Shrieking with joy, students spill through the doors on the last day of school.

Fifty minute classes seemed to last two days, and five day weeks seemed like years. Students dreamed of 2:00 and June 14.

Though the closing of school brought happy thoughts to most, the last few days also brought hectic ones. Exams were first in everyone's mind. After they were over, there was only one day left.

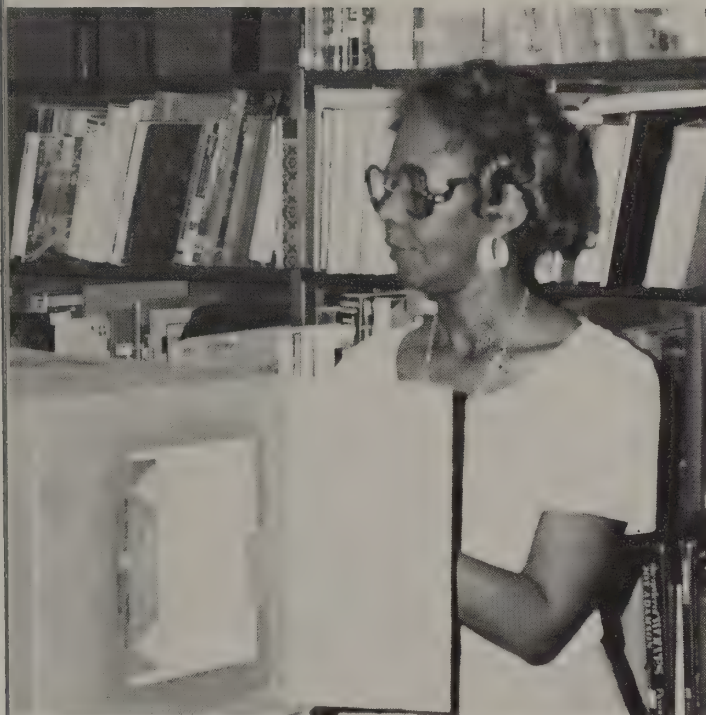

Goodbyes were said to friends, teachers, and administrators. Some were headed for summer jobs, some would just be taking it easy; but everyone was ready for a summer of fun!

We had been waiting so long that when the time finally came, it seemed rather sad. It was lonely after the last bell had sounded and the last student had gone, but each of us had lasting memories of the first year of Heritage.

End-of-the-year-pressure proves to be too much for Jerome Burks.

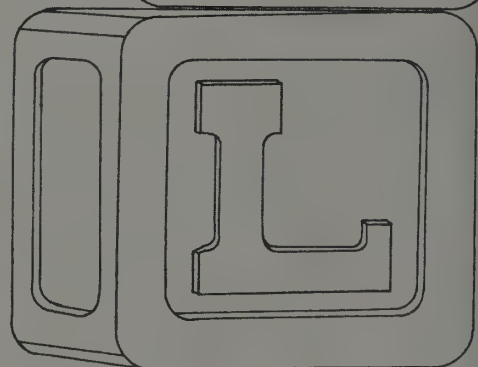

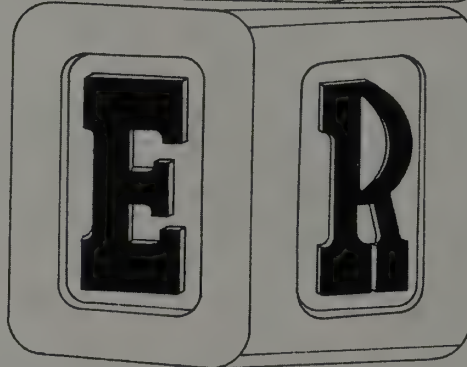

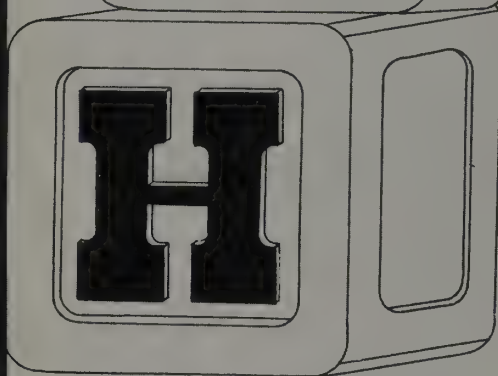

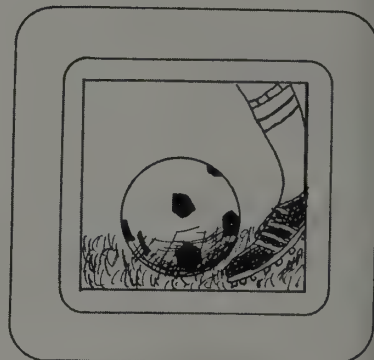

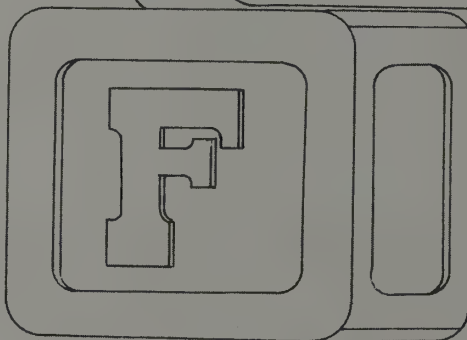

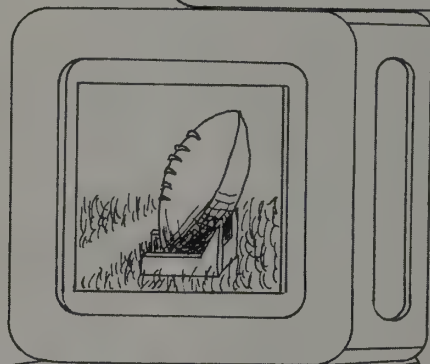

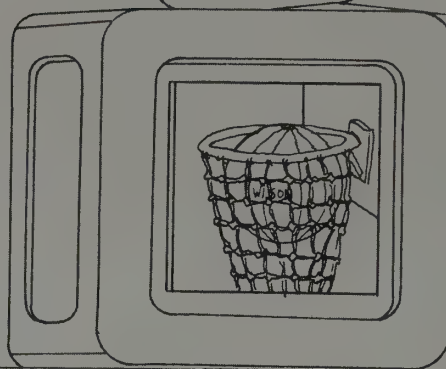

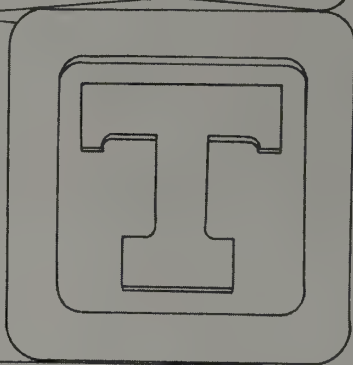

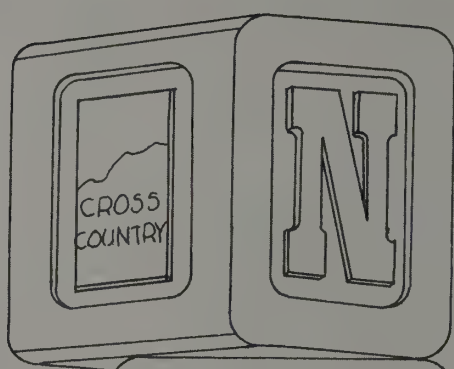

Head librarian Mrs. Davis, packs one of the many boxes of books to be shipped to the new school.

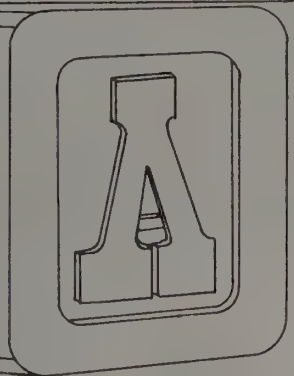

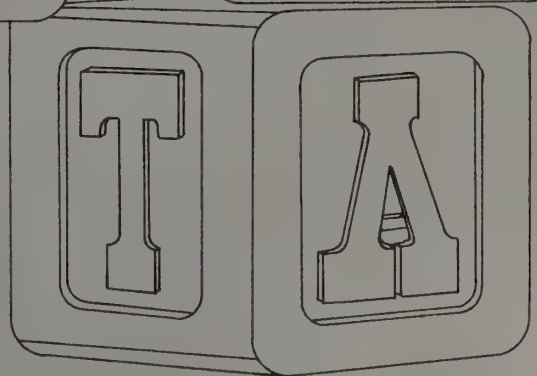

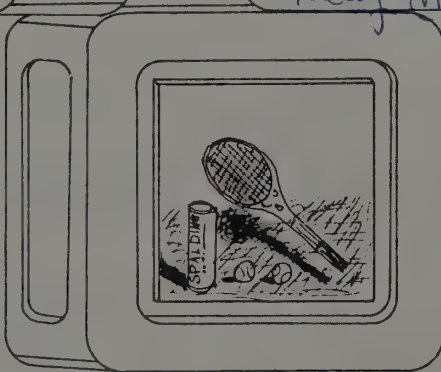

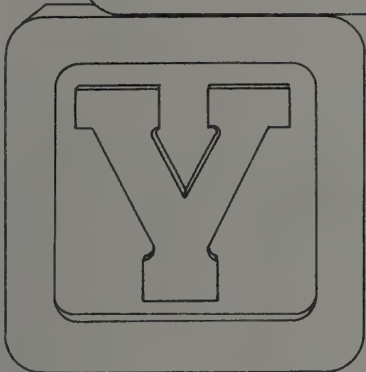

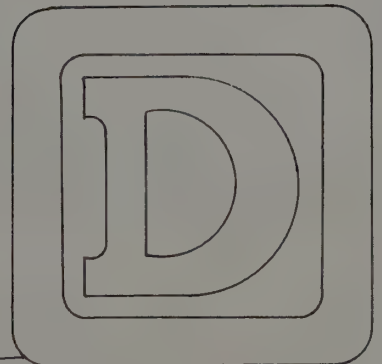

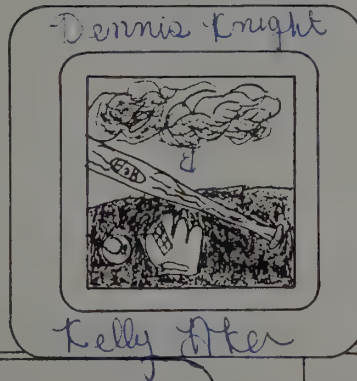

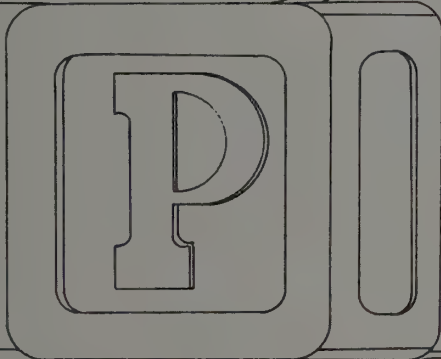

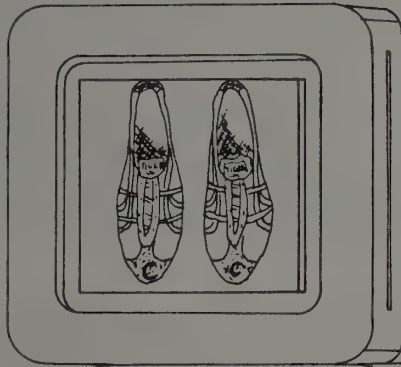

Sunny, final days drive students outdoors to eat and discuss summer plans.

Freshmen, sophomores, and juniors head for the last bus ride home.

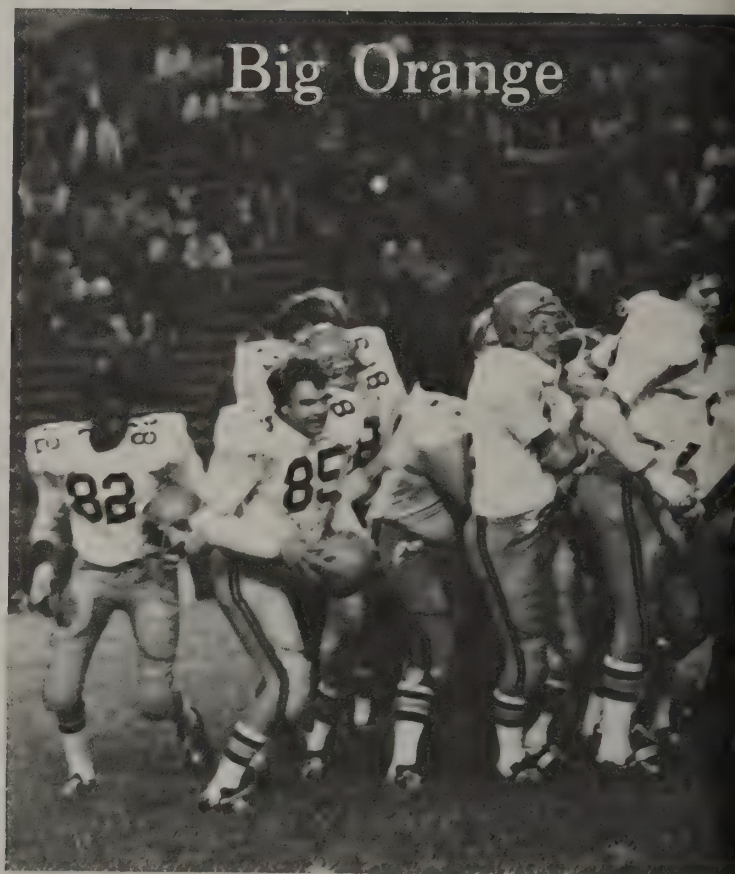

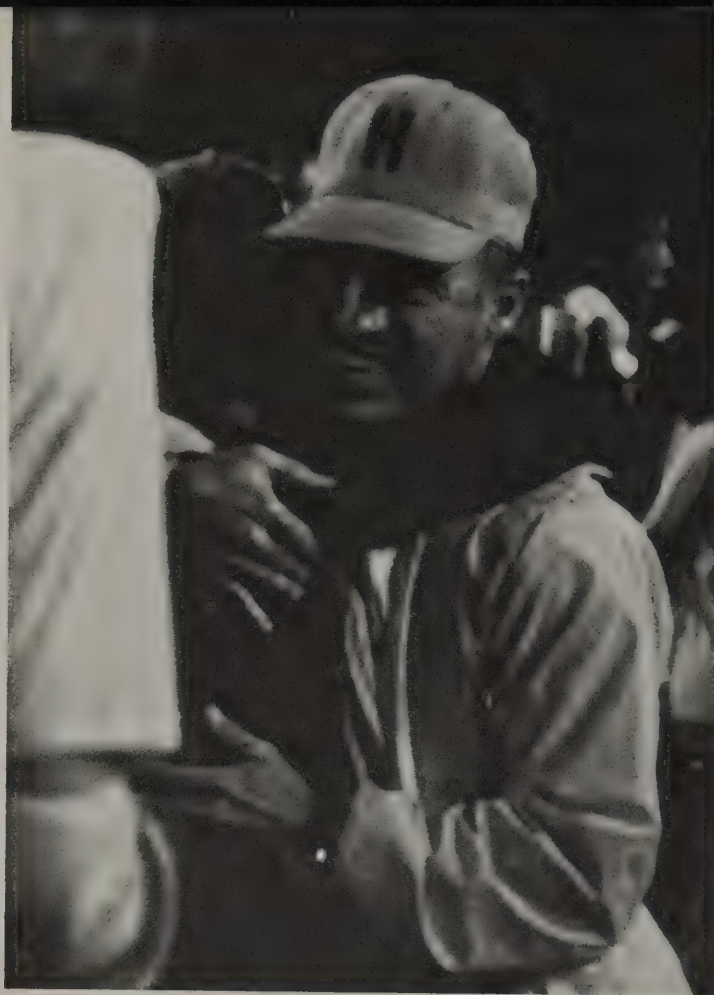

SPORTS

Dickie Burge catches a pass which results in a long gainer.

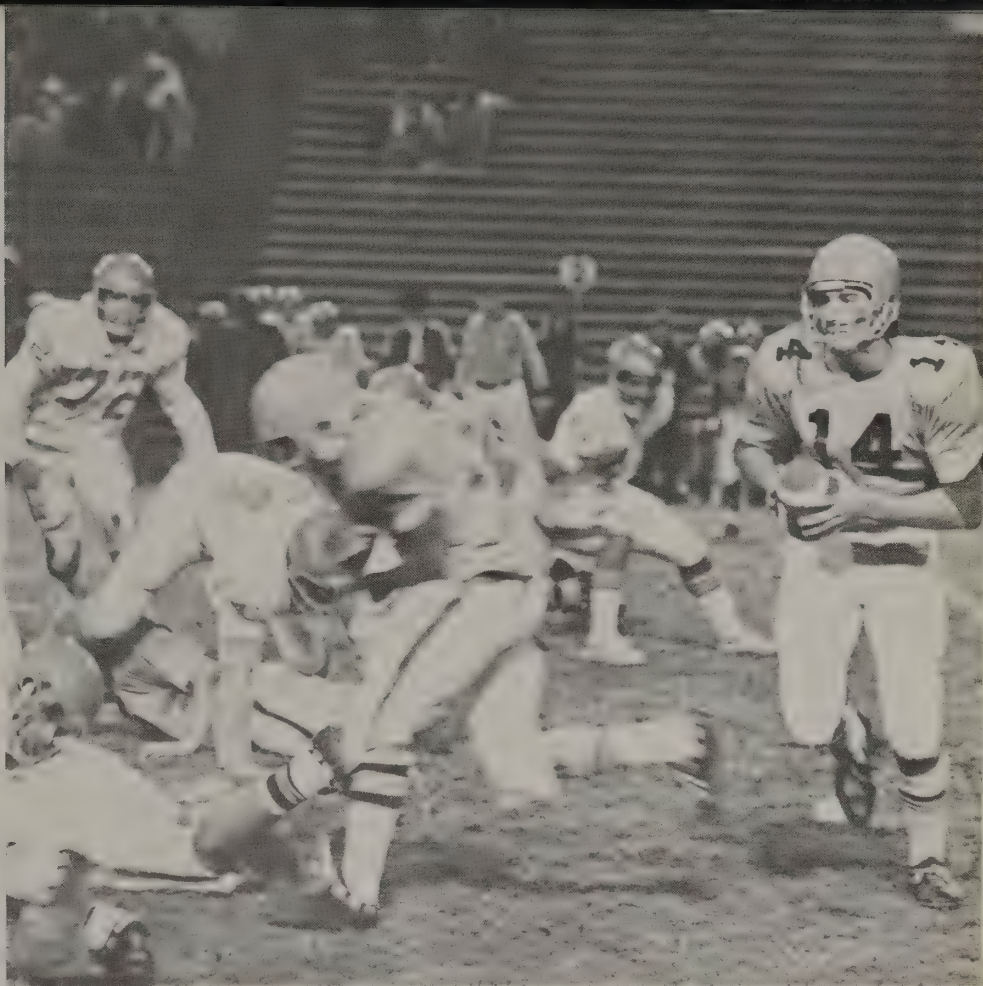

With win over Amherst, Coach Gilbert is rewarded with a victory hug.

"The will to win is not nearly as important as the will to prepare to win." Having this slogan as a daily locker room reminder helped encourage the varsity football team as it began the grind of preparation.

As with all teams in a new school, the immediate problem was to develop a sense of unity. Since many of the players came from different football programs, it was necessary for Head Coach Jim Green and Coaches Wally Gilbert, Roger Jones, and Rufus Knight to acquaint all the players with the style of football to be used in "Big Orange Country."

Even through sweltering August heat and twice-daily practice, it was soon obvious that this team had become filled with high hopes and enthusiasm. The team had, indeed, developed "the will to prepare to win."

Quarterback David Blondino sweeps wide and looks for running room.

Before the season began, everyone counted out the young Pioneers. Everyone, that is, but the team itself. The Pioneers hosted the Amherst Lancers in the season's opener and won! Still, they hadn't really proven themselves. The next week they hosted William Fleming, Roanoke Valley's powerhouse, and were picked to be sure losers. The Pioneers crushed many doubts that week by again winning 7-6 over the Colonels.

A long, dry spell followed, with the Pioneers losing games to powerful area teams. But their skills and drive were becoming increasingly more impressive. The losing streak ended six weeks after it began, with a convincing 29-8 win over Franklin County. The team lost to Halifax in the season's finale, but it had made many believers of the pre-season doubters.

Kicking 'N Punting

At the beginning of this year, Coach Noechel and Coach Lambdin formed the soccer team. With only five students at the first practice session, the team slowly built up a total of thirty junior varsity and varsity members. Although both the junior varsity and the varsity lost badly several times, there were some very close matches.

The Junior Varsity Football Team had a very fruitful season with ties against key teams. "Learning" was the team's theme for the season. The squad was composed predominantly of ninth graders with a few tenth grade members. Many of the squad will go on to play varsity football.

The opposition has a hard time stopping a J.V. running back.

For the week of January 2, 1977, James McCray was named "area public school basketball player of the week," by the Lynchburg News sports staff.

McCray plays both defense and offense, but his super ability lies in scoring. During that week he scored 55 points in three games, leading the Pioneers to two victories.

Coach Hawley remarked, "Mac has been doing a super job for us all year."

After Richard Davis releases the ball, James McCray gets into position for the rebound.

Strategy on how to preserve a victory over E.C. Glass is the topic of discussion be-

Pioneers Paving The Way

A pioneer is one who, despite obstacles, paves the way for others to follow. The Varsity Basketball Team followed the pioneer tradition, for they certainly had obstacles to overcome.

Much of their equipment was late in arriving: the practice uniforms came in December, while the game uniforms arrived only two days before the season's opener. They had to use the facilities of other schools for practice sessions because our gym was being used for other sports, as well as being smaller than regulation size.

The severe winter curtailed their schedule, with the final third of the games being played in the afternoon and the last three games being cancelled.

The team was comprised of only one player with varsity experience, center James McCray. The rest of the squad were either JV or junior high veterans, having played on the Dunbar, Sandusky, or Brookville teams.

During the season the players were able to develop good defense and offense that was team-oriented. The season was highlighted by wins over the other teams in the city.

This 1976-1977 basketball team, despite many obstacles, set a foundation of teamwork that will enable the teams that follow to have successful seasons. They are Pioneers in the best tradition.

Up, Over, 'N Through

Throwing the ball into a hoop or hitting it over a net seemed easy and effortless, but the volleyball and J.V. basketball teams worked hard to make it look that way.

Grueling practices, sharing the gym, and having their schedule curtailed because of the energy crisis were part of the problems the two teams had to contend with. Despite these, both the volleyball and J.V. basketball teams had really good seasons.

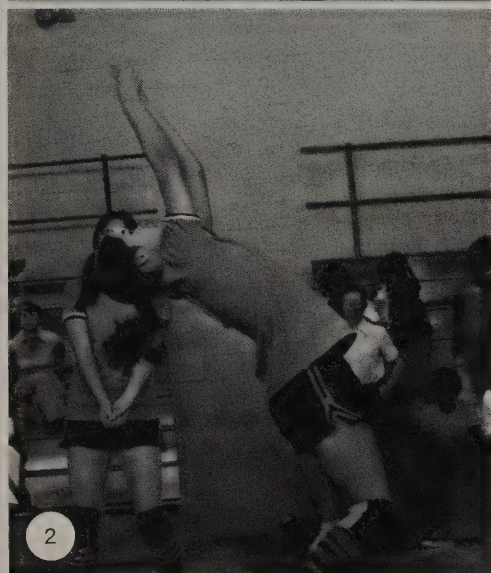

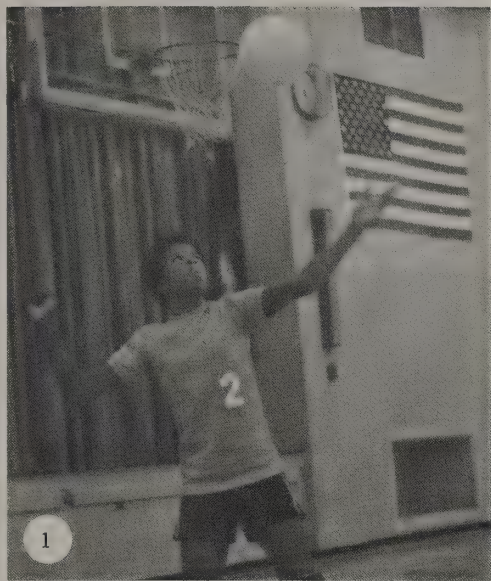

J.V. basketball posted a 5-8 record, while the volleyball team had an overall record of 5-5.

Happy moments for the basketball squad were defeating every central Virginia team played and being the first male team ever to defeat E.C. Glass in any sport. For the volleyball team, happiness was placing third in the District Tournament.

Coaches for the teams, Mr. Coleman and Mrs. Shaner, think that next year will be better because "the farther we go, the greater we get."

Twisting, Twirling 'N Tumbling

Wrestling is a "hard-hitting" sport and the Pioneers on the team are well aware of it.

The season was one of major accomplishments. The team's overall record was 2-11, but only a lack of experience prevented the team from having a highly successful season. A few of the matches were lost by close scores.

Many individuals had good records. The high point of the season came when ten wrestlers placed in the Western District Tournament and qualified for Regional competition.

Another sport requiring coordination and muscle control is gymnastics.

Gymnastics demands not only the ability to survive the vigorous training, but a creative talent as well. Originality is the key note in routines performed at meets. The Pioneer gymnasts must have had a lively imagination, for they finished their season with a 4-4 record.

There were high points as well as disappointments for the team. Two team members, Lois Alexander and Sherri Wimmer, qualified for the Regional meet, but on the not-so-bright side star gymnast Martha Williams was injured at one meet and had to be scratched from the Regionals. But still the team has taken a giant leap into action.

Rackets N' Runners

Our first indoor track team finished a successful season with a 2-2 dual meet record. James Hall became our first district champion with wins in both the long jump and triple jump.

The Junior Varsity Team showed signs of things to come by winning the area championship. Heritage ran away from a strong field of competition.

The cross country team suffered many losses, but gained much in experience. The co-captains of the squad were Edwin Hull and Tim Elliott who have the sophomore and freshman records for the team, while Dale Glasgow has the junior record. Kevin Jones was a district gold winner.

The Girl's Tennis Team finished its year with a 3-10 overall record. Consisting of seven juniors and five sophomores, the initial season was packed with determination, enthusiasm, and cooperation. Awards were given to Tracy Sublett, Most Valuable; Martha Tucker, Most Determined; and Debbie Ware, Most Improved.

What a jump! Rick Callinder tries to improve his previous jump of 5'8".

It's not as easy as it looks. Having no players with varsity experience and only three who belong to a local course, the Pioneer linksters took some lumps playing in the tough Western district. With the positive attitude and determination they displayed, the Golf Team should be more competitive next year.

Another sport that is not what it appears is tennis. Anyone can hit a ball over a net. Right? Wrong! It takes good coordination and an eagle eye.

The Boy's Tennis Team finished it's season with a 2-13 record. They posted victories over area rival Rustburg and district adversary Halifax. Experience, combined with the return of all the "net squad," should make next season a highly productive one.

BASEBALL

High hopes for the Varsity Baseball Team became expectations after a series of wins during the opening of the season. The team won their first seven game. Some of these were very impressive, as they won against state semifinalists, Franklin County and George Washington.

After their first loss to Albermarle, the Pioneers came back to win both games of a doubleheader against Cave Springs. The team went on to win 2 more games, then to lose 2 games. After the losses, they kept on going, and came up with 3 more wins.

Scoring another run for Heritage, Dickie Burge adds to the winning score.

You're Out! Leo Thomas throws his opponent out at first base.

Varsity baseball provided the most excitement of all the spring sports. Tied for first place in the Western District with only one game left in the season, we lost to Halifax in that final game, and found ourselves in a three-way tie for second place. Unluckily, Heritage drew a bye and was defeated when we again had to play Halifax.

The team finished the season with a highly respectable 14-6 overall record and a 6-4 Western District record.

Key players were David Blondino and Dennis Knight. David compiled an 8-2 pitching record; Dennis had a batting average of .417 and received the Most Valuable Player Award.

After such a great first year showing, the team plans to be Western District champs next year.

Individuals Key Track Season

Outstanding individual performances were the key to the outdoor track season. The team as a whole didn't do too well against their tough opponents, but as individuals they set many records.

There were many performers who did exceptional jobs in their fields. Among these were Lee Saunders, shot put; Rickey Callinder, long jump; Doug Claxton, 100, 220, and other relays; and Ken Elliot, pole vaulting. These, along with everyone else on the team, should be commended for their efforts both as a member of the team and as an individual.

The Junior Varsity Outdoor Track Team had a better season, climaxed by the winning of the Western District Junior Varsity Championship.

Cheering 'Em On To Victory

Ready to go and eager to win! As the season opened it looked promising, and remained so, for the Girl's Varsity Track Team.

All four relay teams qualified for the regionals after competing in the Western District Track Meet on May 6. Delois Moss qualified in four events, holding a record first place time in the 80 yard low hurdles. Regionals held in Charlottesville on Friday, May 13, proved to be a lucky day for the squad, as well as for Delois Moss individually. She again broke a record in the 80 yard low hurdles to take second place and qualify for state, as did Lois Alexander.

Cheerleading! But that's not where the Varsity Cheerleaders' jobs ended. They had many important things to do, including choosing their uniforms. The problems came when they needed money, and even more importantly, cheers.

To raise money for their uniforms, they had bake sales, and sold ads and spirit badges. To learn cheers they got ideas from camp and friends and elaborated on old ones.

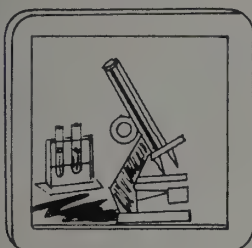

In addition to cheering at all varsity football and basketball games, the squad won first place in a competition at Jefferson Forest High School for the best cheer leading squad.

New Horizons Helping Hands

Service and action are common goals of SCA, Pep Club, and AFS. We had an active SCA officers that cared and were willing to give their all. Those officers were Susan Smith, President; Annette Logwood, Secretary; Dickie Burge, School Board Representative; Bruce Light, Vice-President; Rudy Beverly, Treasurer; TaJuanna Anderson, Second Vice-President; and Linda Nixon, Reporter.

The SCA sponsored many service projects during the year, including collecting food for the needy people of Lynchburg, helping in the Special Olympics, and collecting money from smoking and non-smoking students toward cancer research.

But, the S.C.A. wasn't the only active club. The Pep Club was busy, too. They carried out their job of encouraging team spirit. Like a separate set of cheerleaders, they made posters for games, had special cheering sections at pep rallies, and bought sweat shirts for the club members.

Another organization emphasizing service is the American Field Service. A national organization that sends qualifying students to live with "new families" in other countries, it also brings students to the US.

We had an exchange student, Bodil Hansen, from Denmark, who spent the year at Heritage. This summer Debbie Jo Hedges will go to Turkey to live and study.

Having worked this year through the Glass AFS, a Heritage chapter is now formed.

Service Brings Rewards

Heritage joined the more than 22,000 high schools across the country that have become affiliated with the National Honor Society since its founding in 1919. Those juniors inducted as charter members were judged by the faculty and the NHS Council to possess the qualities required for membership: scholarship, leadership, character, and service.

Officers elected at the first meeting were David Rupert, president; Machel Penn, vice-president; Martha Tucker, secretary; and Wayne Belden, treasurer. A committee was appointed to recommend criteria for evaluating current and prospective members in the areas of service and leadership.

Service was also a key to membership in SODA, a unique and challenging program. Seven students were involved, each fulfilling the role of teacher for one hour every Thursday at Bass Elementary School.

Placed in charge of a select group of fifth graders, SODA members prepared and presented lessons dealing with a variety of topics, ranging from concepts of self-identity to the use and misuse of drugs. To prepare the high school students for their assignment, an extensive training session was held early in September.

While the Bass Elementary students have learned much from their SODA instructors, the instructors report that they probably have received the greatest benefits from the program. They have learned the meaning of patience and universal acceptance and have been forced through experience to understand the complex problems of being both student and teacher.

With a fantastic director like Mr. Carl Harris, how could the Heritage choir go wrong? After attending any of their concerts, one knew that what he had just seen was no "amateur night" event.

Obviously, not only we Pioneers, but also members of the community, enjoy the talents of our choir. Throughout the year they appeared at many banquets, benefits, and concerts.

Early in May, they were invited to the Washington Cathedral for a Sunday morning of sacred music. After a 5:00 a.m. departure on three chartered busses, they arrived in Washington just in time to rehearse. During the performance, their 65 voices sounded like 650 as they echoed throughout the huge sanctuary.

It was a promising year for the choir. With a lot of hard work and a little extra effort, the choir became established as a source of pride.

Marching Pioneers

Each experience of the first marching season became a memorable occasion. The band marched for the first time in their new, modern uniforms, adorned with Aussie hat and Cavalier plum, in the Lynchburg Classic on October 9. The band traveled to Chesapeake for the Tidewater Marching Band Contest on October 16, where twenty-seven bands from Virginia and North Carolina competed.

When the preliminary contest was over, Heritage had made the cut, selected as one of the five finalists. The finals over, the Marching Pioneers had scored an amazing triumph. The band finished second overall, beating many established competitive bands.

We made first in Color Guard, second in Rifles, and Drum Majors Linda Maynard and Cegies Lewis were selected outstanding Drum Majors. Some accomplishment for a six-weeks old band!

On November 6 the band traveled to the University of Richmond for another contest. What a day for the Pioneers! Of the twenty-seven bands in competition, we captured all first places! Best band, best flags, best rifles, outstanding drum majors. It was a great and exciting start of many years to come.

Band students practice their music for upcoming concerts.

After organizing it's members, the Varsity Club started it's first year with the election of officers. These were Lee Saunders, President; Machel Penn, Vice President; Jo Ellum, Secretary; Vinzetta Johnson, Treasurer; Meredith White, historian; and Oscar Booker, Sergeant-at-arms. Some club activities were the establishing of a Constitution, selling stocking hats, and donating a marquee to the new Heritage High School. Several dances were also given by the Varsity Club.

Gym and health classes also played a large part in every student's school year. Lacrosse, basketball, tennis and even folk dancing were taught.

Athletes and health are synonymous, and at Heritage they were both steered toward success.

As part of behind-the-wheel training, Mr. Canody explains how the engine works to Judy Clements and John Erwin.

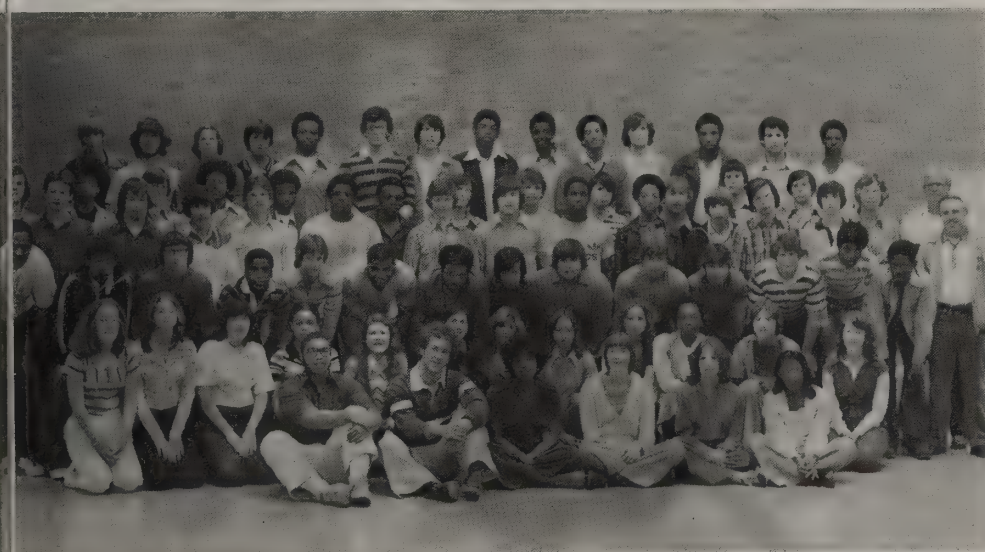

Folk dancing is part of girls' gym classes. Mrs. Overstreet and Anette Penn dance to one of the favorites, "Cottoneyed Joe."

Classical ballet seems "just like flying" to Wilma Early, Patricia Gibbons, and Wanda Horsley.

Boys' gym classes often center on the favorite—playing basketball. Here students prove once again that tall conquers short.

Melting Pot Of Languages

Lingua Latina—fundimenta multarum linguarum—erat lingua Romae cujus cultus et historia, cujus administratio atque architectura, cujus litterae et philosophia apparent in verbo vitae Americanae hodie.

Ohne Deutsch gäbe es kein English, wie wir es kennen. Unsere Muttersprache führt auf frühere germanische Sprachen zurück.

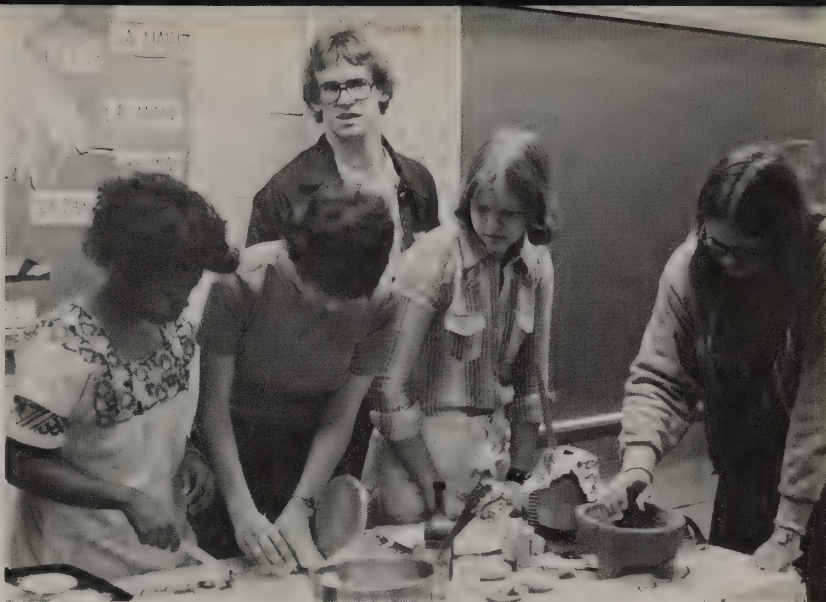

La influencia del español se nota en muchos nombres de costa a costa, de San Francisco a Virginia aun en Pittman Plaza.

Depuis la conquête des Normands le français a joué un rôle dans la formation des mots anglais. De nos jours l'influence est le contraire. Il y a de plus en plus des mots anglais dans la langue française. On l'appelle "FRANGLAIS."

It's Not All Verbs

Something fun was always going on in the Spanish Club. After organizing, members started the year off right with a taco party which was followed with a Christmas fiesta, complete with a pinata.

In March Charo Stanovich, Glass' AFS student from Peru, spoke and demonstrated and instructed in Peruvian folk dances.

Another major event was the making of a table cloth, each square of which is embroidered with the likeness of an Aztec god. It will be a lasting momento of the Spanish Club's first year.

The Cercle Francais was keeping busy, too. There were bake sales, a Christmas banquet, pizzas at the Pizza Inn, and initiation of first year members.

During spring break Mrs. Frank, club sponsor, accompanied several of the members to France. They returned more excited than ever about learning the language and understanding the culture of that land.

French Club initiation was rough, but fun. President Jennifer Hylton commands initiates Amy White, Vickie Crance, Cathy Staples, Suzanne Isley, and Annette Hodge.

Readin', Writin', And Conjugatin'

German Club activities began with an enthusiastic group of students. The first thing on their agenda was attending a German Advent Service at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church.

Students learned the German carols that would be sung during the service, which also included the reading of the Weihnachts Geschichte (Christmas Story).

The Latin Club had an interesting and busy year. Activities included attending a workshop in Norfolk, the re-enactments of the assassination of Julius Caesar and a Roman funeral, and a banquet following the initiation of Latin I students.

The banquet, with upper-class students dressed as gods and goddesses of Mt. Olympus, featured entertainment of music, gymnastics, and Beledi dancing.

Researching The Sciences

PURPOSE: To learn about numbers, formulas, and dates.

MATERIALS: Students eager for learning, teachers equipped to teach, and administrators prepared to make everything run smoothly.

PROCEDURE: Place the students in their respective classes, and provide them with a good instructor 50 minutes to teach, answer questions, give tests, and assign homework.

OBSERVATIONS: Sometimes individuals became perplexed, but the instructor soon straightened them out. The students didn't like homework or tests, but they endured them. Finding the difference between X and Y, getting dates, places, and people matched up, and dissecting small animals seemed to create the largest problems.

CONCLUSION: The classes learned many new things in a year's time.

the SCIENCES

World Of Mystery

Walk into the world of science! An interesting and complex topic, science deals with everything from sea life to the digestive system of a frog. Science is the course where you'll find answers to the who, what, and why questions.

General Science classes let you explore the earth, its atmosphere, and the things on the earth, living and non-living. You may end up underground, testing rock samples, or in a planetarium, studying the night skies.

Biology deals with life in all shapes and forms. What is life? This is not a very simple question, but after a course in biology you have an idea of what life does and provides for every living organism.

Preserved "things" occupies Jeff Brandenburg's attention in biology lab.

Search for aquatic life is goal of biology student Debbie Watson.

A Matter Of Energy

Chemistry gives us a picture of the earth as a gold mine of resources. The one hundred-odd natural elements are an important key to what the earth holds in store. We can explore the available resources and make them come alive.

The laws of nature introduce themselves in physics classes. Here we learn of the force of gravity—why we're stationary on the earth and not floating around in space somewhere.

In the math classes we will find proofs, calculations, and many weird methods of doing simple problems, only to find we're being introduced to trig and calculus.

If we happen to pass through the science or math departments, we should join a class and ask the questions and learn the formulas that will lead us to higher learning.

History students are strong supporters of Carter as they discuss the upcoming presidential election.

Past Memories Future Hopes

Not only was it a club, but it was an experience, as any member of the History Club can verify. They were always doing something new and exciting.

A series of guest speakers introduced the members to various histories and cultures, making them come alive.

The highlight event of the year was a field trip to the National Gallery of Art in Washington. There, on tour for the first time, was part of the famous collection of King Tut's treasures. Displays of statues, furniture, tools and jewelry preceded the climax—King Tut's gold funeral mask.

Members expect the History Club to remain one of the school's most interesting, but this year will be hard to top.

Bring Out The Mixing Bowls

Begin by getting all the ingredients together. Place interested students in their respective classes. Into the Home Ec. department spread sewing, cooking, and decorating abilities evenly among the students. Train the students in the ICT program to learn their tasks and to carry them out to the best of their abilities. Mix these together, and add some learning about possible vocations in each area. Spread the students in DECA throughout the city after their morning classes so that they can go on to a part-time job and learn about business. Add the shop and ROTC classes, and instill in them leadership, and precise judgements. Mix all of the ingredients, with the help of teachers and counselors, each student will chose the right vocation.

Looking Forward To The Future

Need a part-time job? DECA and ICT will help you find one. If you join one of these programs, you'll have a special three-course schedule. After the three morning classes, you'll go on to a job. But what if you don't have a job? The school helps you out there. Teachers help find jobs for students, so everyone does have a job to go to after school.

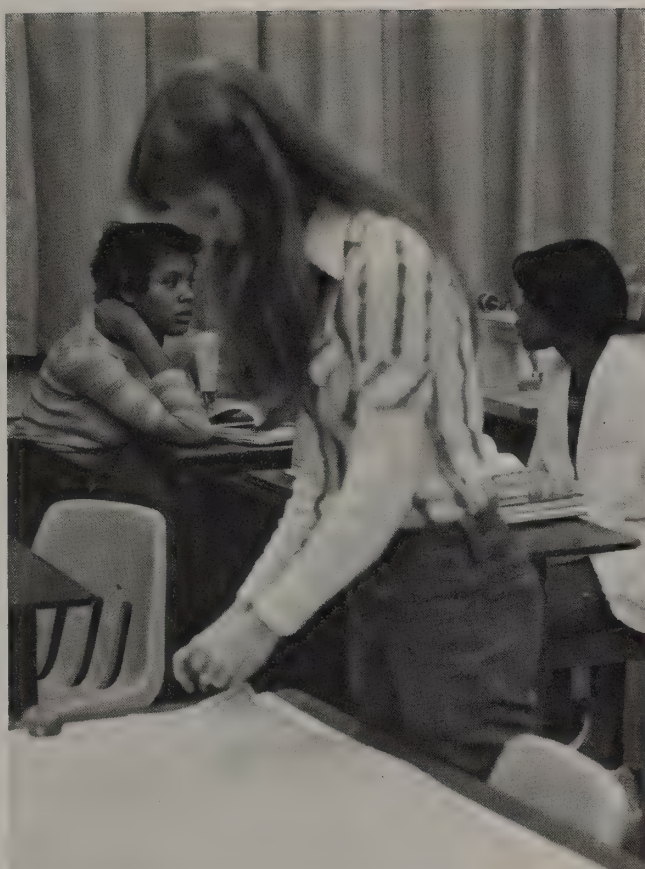

Home Economics and Fashions classes are for the homemakers and glamour girls. The courses include sewing, cooking, and modeling. And the products are astonishing! Students end up with cakes, meals, dresses and jeans. The best thing about the courses are that the students can say "I did it!"

Leadership Plus

Many students choose careers dealing in business. The Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) were very much involved in these careers. They were active in competitions throughout the year, in which many of them placed. They competed for titles in areas such as office procedures, designing and constructing bulletin boards and exhibits, and spelling. In the spelling competition, they had lists of 100 not-so-easy words, that they were tested on. The results were sent in and recorded according to how everyone else in the state did.

ROTC is another aspect of leadership. Students learn discipline, and earn status in addition to the abilities they achieve while in the organization. It prepares them to go into the service if, when they finish school, they decide that's what they want to do.

We also have business courses that include typing, shorthand, general business, and bookkeeping. These courses teach students the basics of business and how to carry these basics out. They are also good career guidelines.

If business is where your interests lie, then head for that department. Heritage had many business students, and all of them learned skills needed in the world of business.

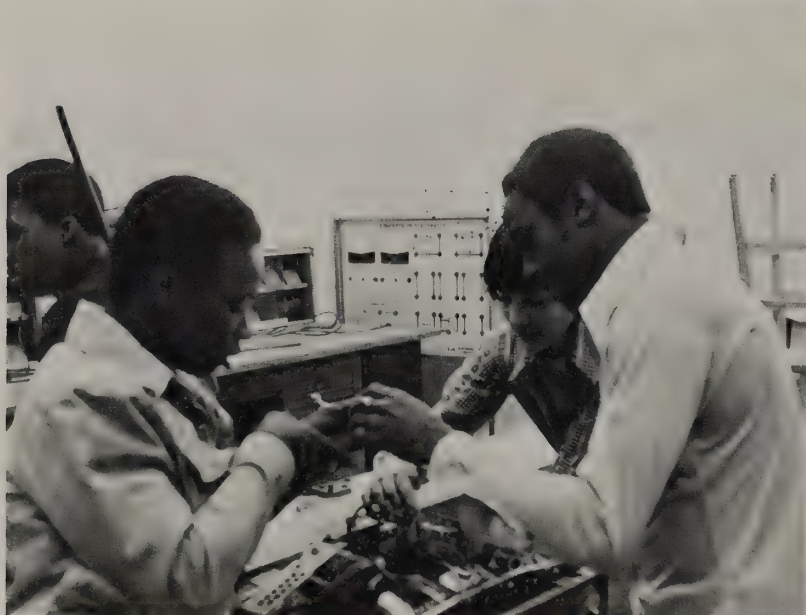

Second place winners of the Fancy Tricks Club consist of Jay Williams, Melvin Pollard, Roger Hamner, and Chipper Shirly.

Repairing a radio is a delicate job, but Jeff Viar never doubts the results.

Mechanical Wizards

Courses that require precise measurements can sometimes be very tedious. But many students enroll in industrial arts classes so they can learn these skills.

Things that are accurately done usually come out right is what most students learn soon after entering the program. Measurements must be precise, lines straight, and wires uncrossed.

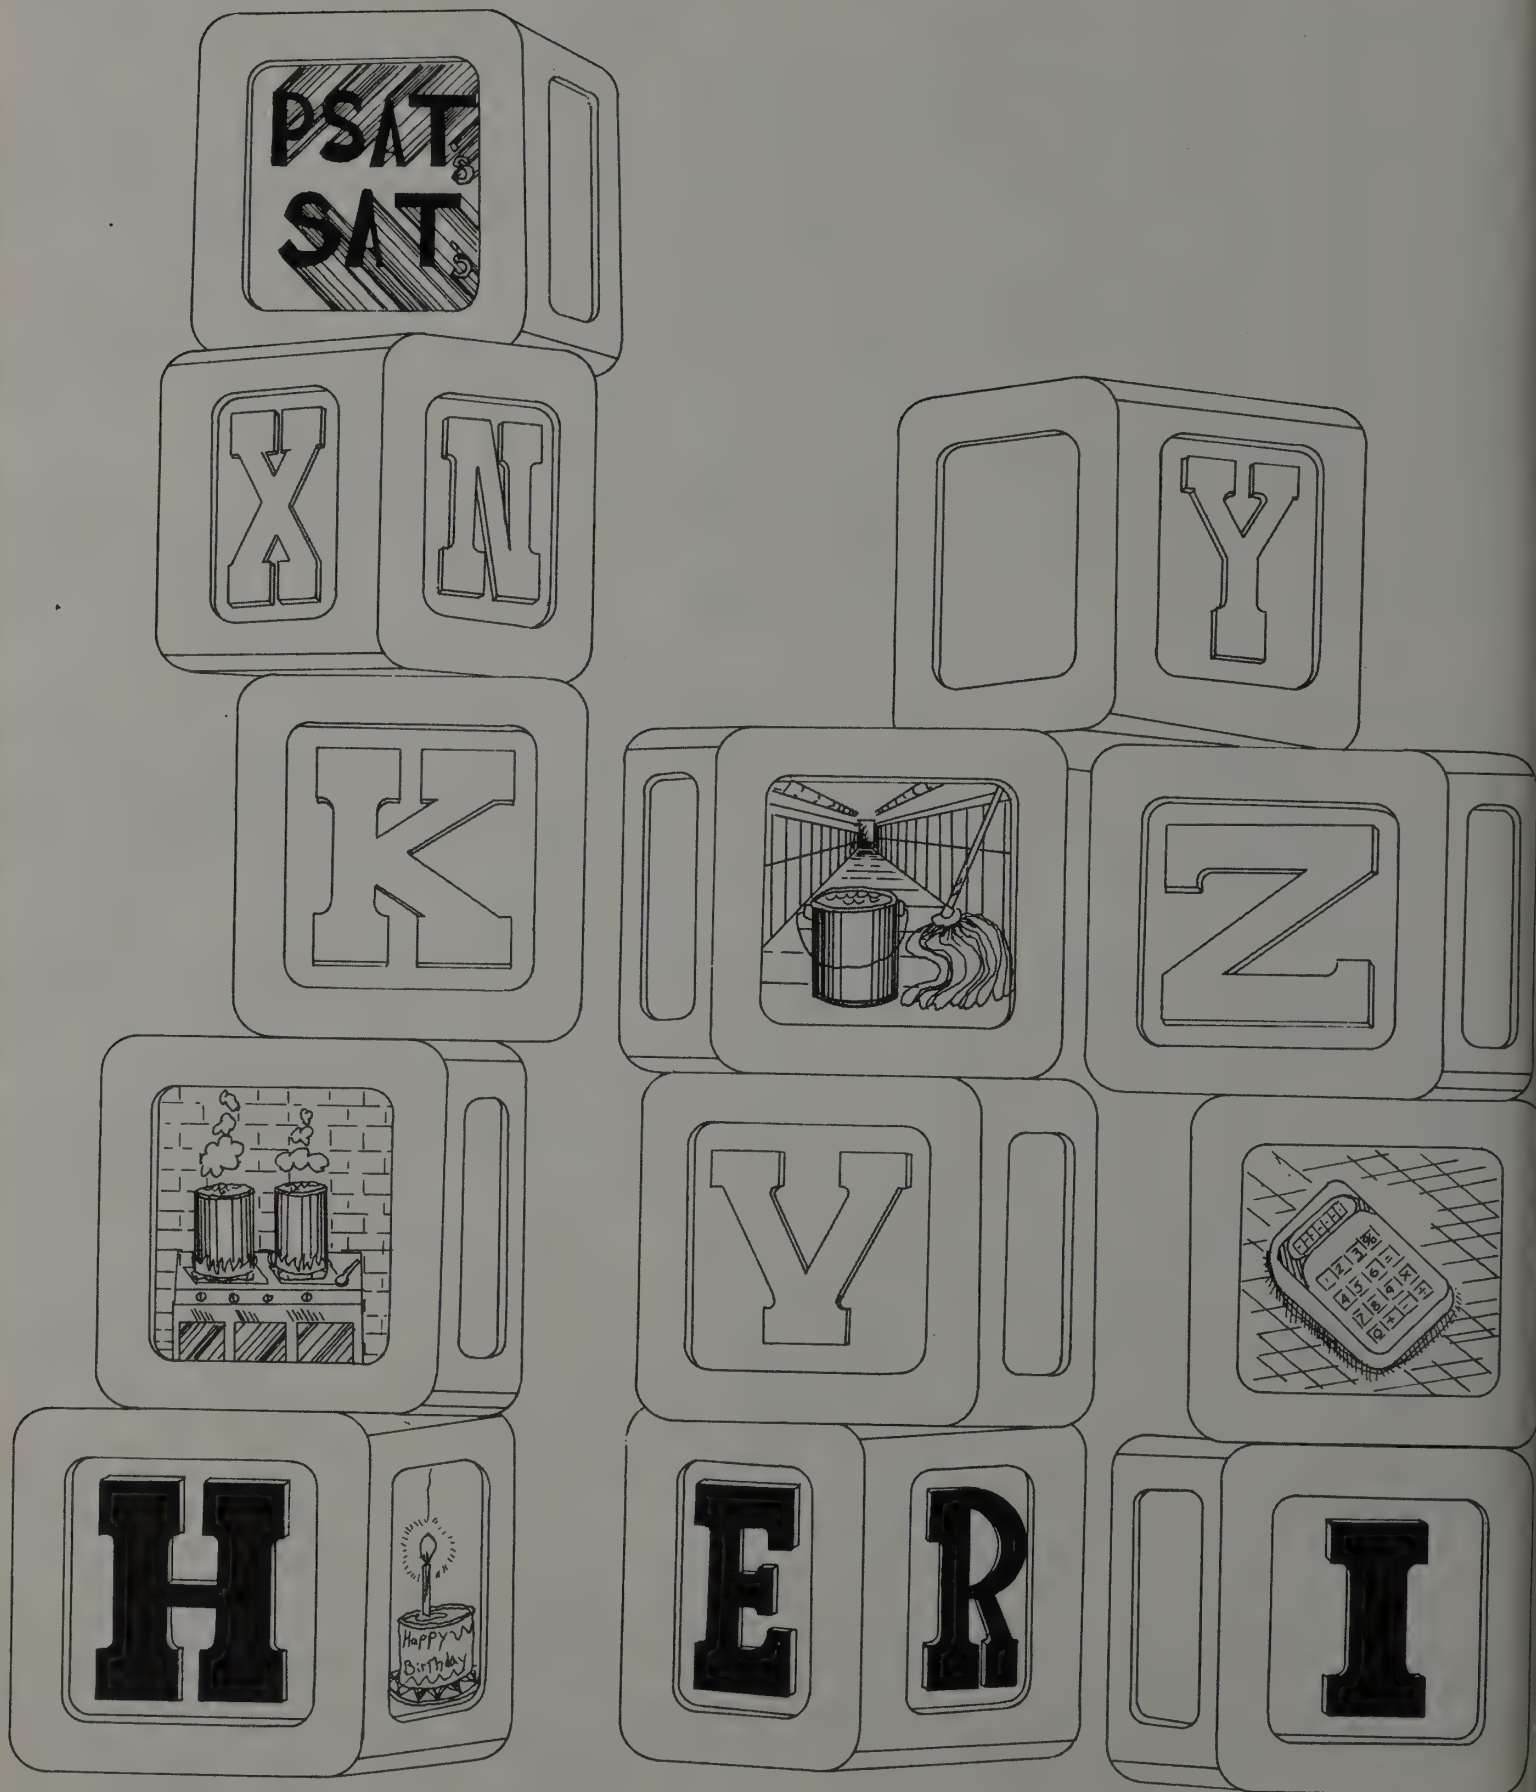

Students learn how to operate many machines. In addition, by the time the course is finished, they can also put many of these machines together, tear them apart, or simply fix a broken mechanism.

An extra plus that these courses make available to students are job opportunities. On-the-job training is required for much of this type of work, and jobs of this sort are usually long-termed and promising.

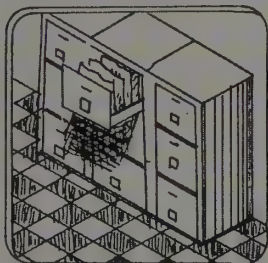

There's no limit to the number of things a student learns in these courses. If you have imagination and want to put it to good use, join the industrial arts program.

Keeping things straight in mechanical drawing is easy for Billy Coleman.

Shavin' Heads

"I don't plan on shaving my head," remarks Brian Tomlin. Brian, a 6'3" 205 pound junior, was speaking about an agreement among some of the players on the varsity football team to shave their heads if the team doesn't beat E.C. Glass next year.

Brian, a defensive and offensive tackle, started playing almost as soon as he could read and write. He also runs outdoor track and throws the shotput for indoor track.

"I think we are going to win the district in football next year," says Brian. "Having seniors will really make a difference."

Psyched Up

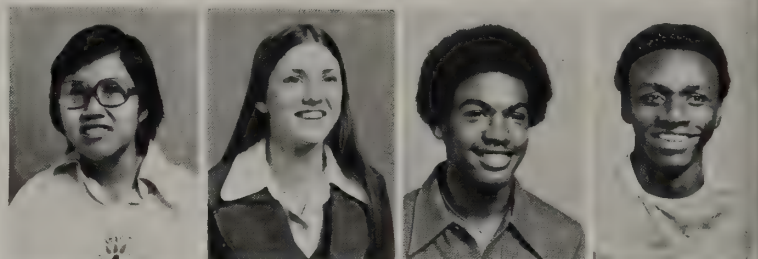

Pep rallies are designed to arouse school spirit and psyche up the students as well as the players. The Amherst vs. Heritage pep rally must have been a success because we went on to win that big opening game 7-6.

A second pep rally, preceding the Glass game, was highlighted by Mr. Moorman's "late Saturday night" routine. Even though the team was overpowered that night, the enthusiasm and Heritage spirit made the pep rally fun for all.

Piecing It Together For A Heritage

Fifth-six squares—all different and each telling its own story. Combined, the squares are a quilt made by Mrs. Thompson's Art I classes. It served two main functions. First, it was a unit study on shape and space for which each student designed his own square. Second, the quilt will be a lasting reminder of the people and the events of the first year of Heritage High School.

Art student Cathy Parsonage and Mrs. Thompson arrange completed "Heritage Quilt" for exhibit in art showcase.

"Artist needed!" Dale Glasgow came to the rescue when that call for help was made. Dale, a junior, became the LEGACY staff artist. Although he worked with all sections of the yearbook, his special contribution was the division pages.

The detail included in these drawings took several hundred hours of work time, and Dale's training in both art and mechanical drawing were needed for their execution.

A former track and cross country team member at Brookville, Dale has turned in his spare time to riding rather than running. After hours he now likes to ride his motorcycle or his Tennessee walker, Stockings.

Dale's future plans include a career in commercial art with preparation at either Virginia Commonwealth or Atlanta Art Institute.

Trophies! Dalany Brown and Victor Evans have each been awarded seven bowling trophies by participating in various tournaments. Last year Vic and Dalany rated fifth in doubles in the American Junior Bowling Tournament at Christiansburg.

Both Vic and Dalany think this will probably be their last year of competitive bowling. Vic plans to devote more time to academics, and Dalany will spend his extra time in the sports field. Both will remember the fun of their successful bowling experiences.

Globetrotter

Living in a foreign country is a dream that won't come true for most of us. However Afuluena Ebo, or "Ebo" as she is usually called, was lucky enough to spend her first six years in Nigeria.

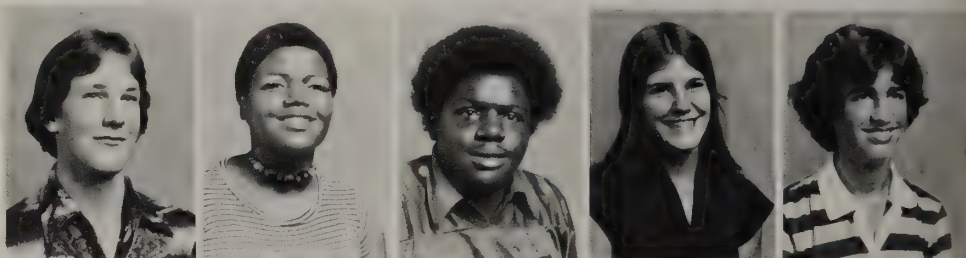

Her mother, a Lynchburger, met Afuluena's father, a Nigerian, at New York University where they were students. After being married in a traditional American wedding, they moved to Nigeria, where they were then remarried in a native Nigerian ceremony.

"Ebo" remembers how her daily activities differed from the American ways of life. For example, she wore uniforms to school instead of the casual dress she is now accustomed to.

After a quick locker visit, Afuluena Ebo is ready for her next class.

Top Honors

Two of the highest academic awards given to juniors are the opportunities to attend the Governor's School for the Gifted and the Presidential Classroom programs.

Randy Roach and David Proffitt were selected as Heritage's representatives to the former, involving study at Mary Baldwin from June 17 to July 14.

David was also chosen for the Presidential Classroom, held in Washington in March. Participation in seminars and discussions led to a better understanding of the federal government.

Choir Members Accompany Group

Being able to play accompaniment and all parts; being at all rehearsals and performances—these are the taxing requirements of the chorus pianists. Pam Dodd, first accompanist, Donna Cole, Ellen Plunkett, Susan Fainter, and Leslie Cole all are qualified for this job with the Heritage Chorus.

Donna sings with the choir and dances in the chorus group, the New Heritage Singers. From a musical family, she was a soprano representative in All-Regional Chorus. She is also involved in other school activities such as Varsity Cheerleading and outdoor track. You never know what Donna will be into next!

MAKIN' TRACKS

An interest in running began for Cathy Staples with the Presidential Program in elementary school. A varsity member of the girl's track team at Glass in '75-'76, her favorite events are the 440-relay and the long jump.

"I enjoy running," remarks Cathy. "It is very worthwhile and rewarding, as well as a great way to keep in shape. I look forward to better track facilities next year at the new school."

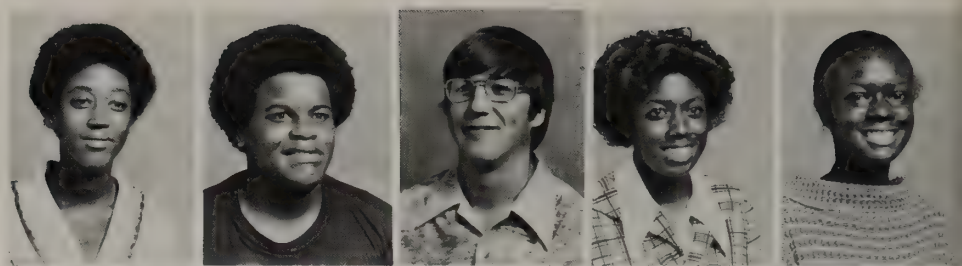

Mrs. Overstreet, her gym teacher and track coach, says that Cathy is an outstanding student in all ways. She maintains a high academic standing, she has enthusiasm, and she is well-liked by her classmates and teammates.

Cathy started running during indoor season and has been one of the most dedicated participants on the squad. She works hard, both physically and mentally, and always seems to enjoy practicing either with the squad or on her own. She is frequently seen walking or jogging the two miles from the school to her home.

Track star Cathy Staples demonstrates the long jump, one of her specialties.

FOR THE FUN OF RIFLES

While practicing routines for the Rifle Corp, Debbie Watson catches the camera's eye.

Many separate elements went into the making of the mighty Pioneer band: drum majors, the band members themselves, and the Rifle Corp. Debbie Watson, a three-year Corp member, felt that "The Rifle Corp added excitement and color to the scene at halftime."

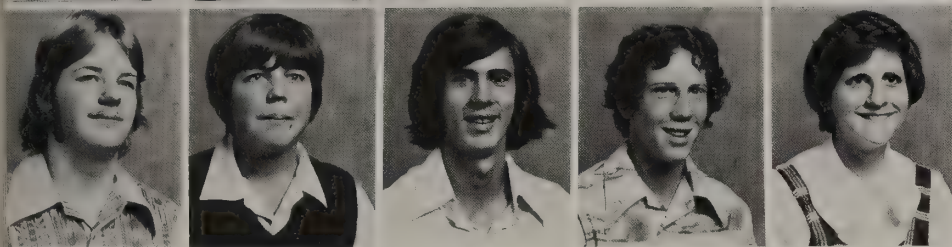

Working with the band and learning new routines was not easy, but Corp members benefited from attending special training camps during June.

How do you become a Corps member? Well, let the Corp know you're interested, learn the basics, and then develop your own routine to be judged.

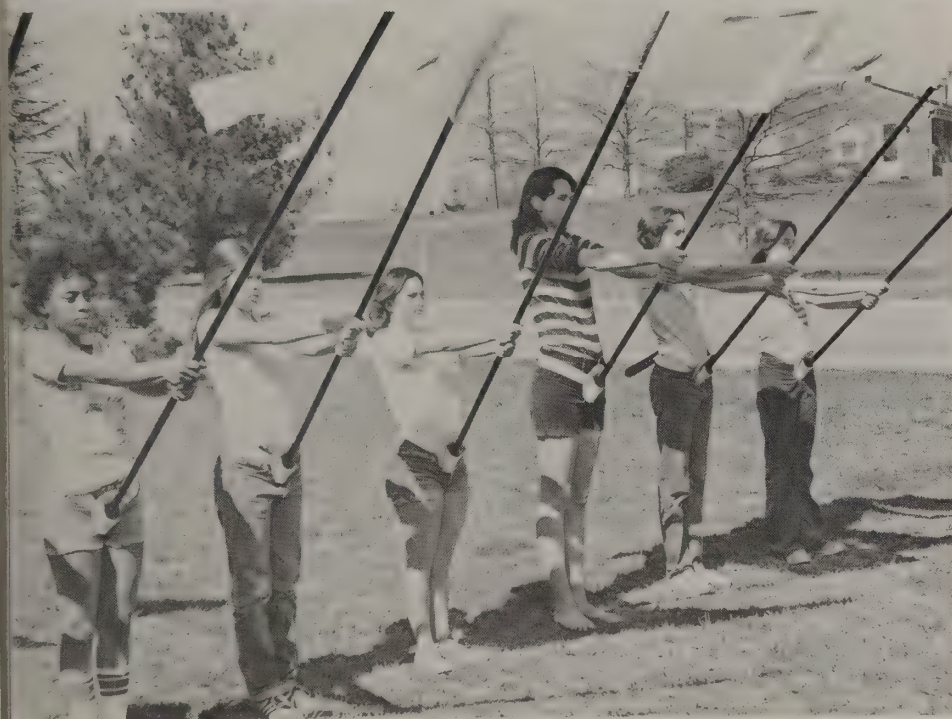

"Being a part of the Corps gives you more confidence in yourself and your abilities. It also gives you an opportunity to make new friends and to be involved in something that is an important part of the school," said Debbie. "I hope to be in the Corp all through high school."

Career Fear? Not Here!

In class presentation on career choice, Brenda Markham discusses the requirements of a physical therapist.

Personnel director of Burlington Industries in Central Virginia, Mr. Wallace Hawkins, speaks to tenth graders during Career Week.

You're a sophomore in high school and your counselor, or maybe your parents, inform you that it's time to start thinking about a career. Terrified, you realize you haven't thought you would ever really go to work.

All over the country, thousands of students are preparing for their chosen careers. At Heritage from late October to mid-December, 10th grade students took part in an extensive career program specifically aimed at sophomores.

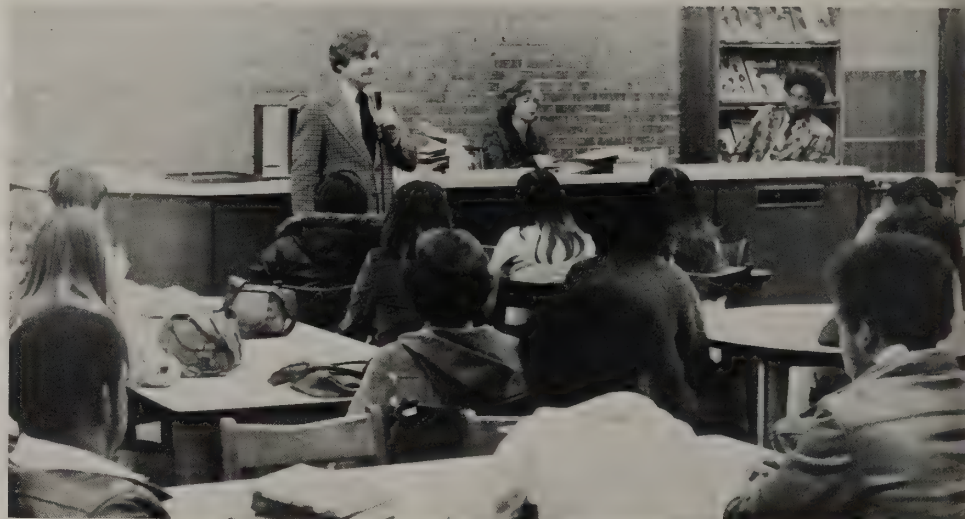

Representatives from various industries and all job levels came to talk to students: pilots, personnel managers, and doctors. Taped interviews of job-holders all over the city—construction foremen, transportation employees, service personnel—were played over the inter-com during classes.

In English classes students were assigned to write a research paper on a career that interested them.

Mr. Richard Moorman, director of the tenth grade career programs, says he believes that the program benefitted students from many standpoints. It aroused the students' interest and made them aware of jobs and employment.

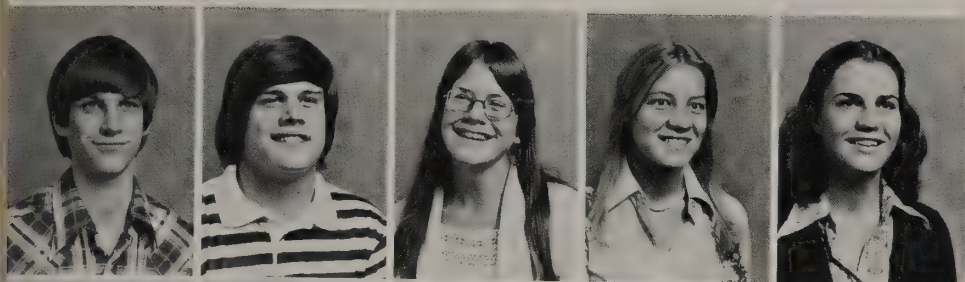

Other activities concerning careers were a Career Fair in March and seminars at CVCC.

"Break, Break"

"How 'bout that Bronco Buster one time, come on!" Wendell Walton, better known as "Bronco Buster" to CB'ers, started out with a six channel walkie-talkie and then bought himself a twenty-three channel Citizen's Band Radio.

"I have been interested in CB's for over two years now," says Wendell, "and since I got mine, I have picked states as far away as Arizona, Florida, and Michigan."

Wendell, whose call numbers are KYK-1431, usually stays on Channel 11. Call him for a chat. Until then, "We gone. Bye, Bye."

KEEP THOSE LEGS CHURNIN'

Vic Cardwell, who plays defensive back on the varsity football team, comments on the season, "It was a year of learning, trying at times, but all in all it was worth it."

Vic also had a great year in both indoor and outdoor track. He was voted "Outstanding Sophomore" by his fellow teammates and came in sixth in the district in the one thousand.

But Vic's not "all work and no play." In his spare time he collects comic books and enjoys playing basketball.

Bluegrass Boy

Musical talent and a long list of accomplishments anyone would envy—these belong to sophomore Randy Driskill.

At six, Randy began picking out notes and then playing tunes on his grandfather's guitar. With parental encouragement, he has learned to play not only the guitar, but also the banjo, bass, fiddle, mandolin, and the slide dobro guitar.

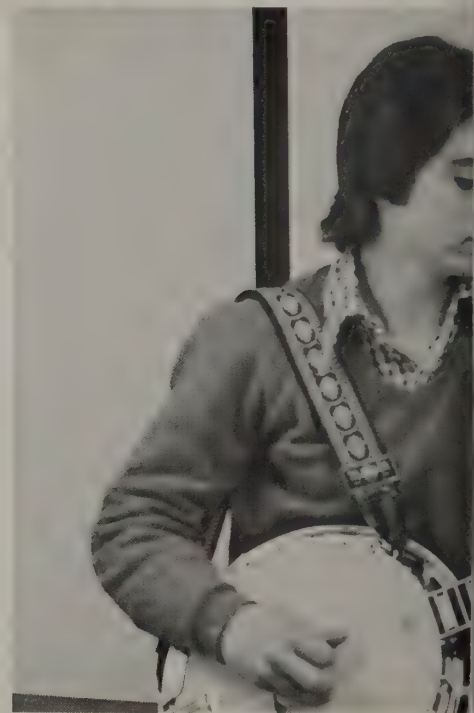

At thirteen, his talent landed him a place with "The Mountain Men," a bluegrass band. Later he joined "Shady Valley Grass" and the

"Bluegrass Unlimited."

"The guys were mostly in their late twenties to middle thirties," Randy said, "But there wasn't any friction or lack of communication between us; we really got along well."

Two months ago, fifteen year old Randy joined "Harvest," a bluegrass band that has put out the album and tape, "Breaking Ground." Randy definitely plans to make music his career.

One of many musically talented students, Randy Driskill excels in banjo playing.

HAIRY 'N SCARY

Three years ago, Martin Seyffert's dad brought "Tulip" home. Only this Tulip was no flower. It was a six inch long tarantula, sometimes called a "banana spider."

Martin feeds his fuzzy friend live mice and cockroaches every three weeks. For exercise, Tulip crawls around Martin's room. "They make good pets," said Martin. "They don't make noise; they don't eat too much; and they are friendly."

"Tulip the Tarantula," in the hand of his owner Martin Seyffert, was a respected guest in the biology classes this winter.

UPS AND DOWNS

As eighth graders, we looked forward to leaving familiar junior high, and entering the sometimes scary, practically grown up world of high school. The big day approached, and we were filled with conflicting thoughts about high school, but somehow we knew things would turn out okay.

As freshmen, we made a few mistakes. We got in the wrong lines, lost our way in the halls, and sometimes sat on the wrong side at football games. But we always bounced back with even more determination to help make Heritage High School the best ever.

We gave our spirit, our ideas, and our pride to the school; and next year we will be the ones to help the new freshmen through the confusion of their first year.

ART IN WOOD

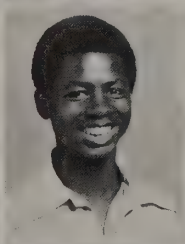

Co-ed shop courses came just in time for Julie Williams, a ninth grade student. She became interested in working with wood several years ago. When she took woodworking in the eighth grade, she found that she also liked working with the many types of tools and machinery in the shop.

One of her current teachers, Mr. Austin, says, "Julie is real good. She is both talented and coordinated." Julie likes everything, except the unavoidable tests, and is planning on taking shop all through school.

WATER WONDER

Paul Drinkard, a skilled water-skier, has been skiing for almost fourteen years. He has spent time perfecting and enjoying water-skiing. When he becomes eighteen, Paul plans to enter competitions in which he will ski for money, not trophies. He trick skis, using sleds and discs. He can slalom and has tried barefoot skiing, an art he hopes to perfect this summer.

Paul's family has a cabin on Smith Mountain Lake, where he skis most of the time. He has been offered a job as a ski instructor in Miami, Florida, for the summer.

Gazing across the water from the old mill site, Paul Drinkard dreams of his future in water skiing.

MULTI-TALENT

Ronald Brown is always improving himself. He is a J.V. football player and a varsity wrestler. He has had much experience in football by playing in junior high school and the city league, prior to this year. A defensive end, Ronald plans to be on the varsity team next year.

Until this year Ronald limited himself to football, but then he discovered wrestling. He joined the varsity wrestling team and is now defending his 145 pound weight class. This year he had achieved a platinum metal and a ribbon. He plans to continue wrestling throughout high school.

Ronald commented that he might run track next year in addition to playing football and wrestling. He has set no special goals for himself. "I just like the competition," he stated.

As a freshman, Martha Williams already has a good start as a gymnast. While on vacation at Ferrystone, Martha saw some girls doing gymnastics and became interested.

She took lessons for two years at the local YWCA where she entered several competitions. She also competed in the Junior Olympics at Richmond in 1973.

Martha was on the gymnastics team at Dunbar for two years and is now having a good year at Heritage. She is an all-round gymnast, competing in the uneven parallel bars, balance beam, floor exercises, and vaulting divisions.

MOVE OVER MARK SPITZ

Swimming star Richard Harris has spent the past ten years of his life amassing fifty trophies and over four hundred first place medals and ribbons in his chosen sport. He has been seeded in the National Top Ten sixteen times and first in the nation five times, four in the YMCA league and once in the AAU.

Richard had this to say about swimming in Lynchburg: "We desperately need a good swimming facility. You have to give a lot of credit to the coaches, especially Russ Gregory, for how much they've done for Lynchburg's swimming program. It has been difficult considering the limited time and facilities available in the winter."

HAMMIN' IT UP

"Ham radio": these words are synonymous with excitement to Scott Kirby, a member of the Lynchburg Amateur Radio Club. He finds that being a ham radio operator provides many advantages for him.

His brothers first introduced him to the hobby. One of them now lives in Maryland; sometimes Scott is able to talk to him on the radio. He commented, "It saves money on long distance telephone calls!"

Most of the time Scott operates on 15, 40, and 80 meter bands. He has talked to people in all fifty states, in European countries, and in South Africa. Time and weather are factors that determine how far away he can reach and on what band.

BRAINS N' BODY

Greg Brew proved himself outstanding in not one, but two categories this year. He won the Athletic Scholar Award for 1977.

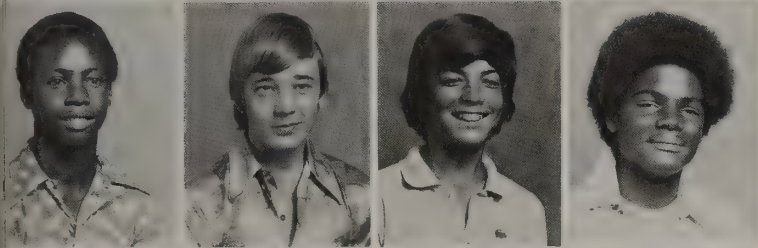

The determining factors that led to his winning the award were his ability in wrestling and his progress academically throughout his schooling. Before being presented with this award, he had to prove he was eligible by maintaining a "B" average through wrestling season, as well as defending his weight class, 138 lbs.

Greg got involved in wrestling in his search for a different but exciting sport. He thought he could tackle it, and indeed he did! Greg considers wrestling as an individual sport. He commented, "It's you against your opponent. In the end, win or lose, you know it was you. You can't blame anyone else for your mistakes like you can in team sports."

FRESHMEN CAN BE "KNOCKOUTS"

Only four months with the Lynchburg Boxing Team and Ronnie Carter has already won a trophy. This was for defending his 103 lb. weight class in a sport requiring much hard work and willpower in order to be successful.

The young boxer has high hopes for his future. After many of his friends began to make a name for themselves on the boxing team, Ronnie decided to do the same. By continuing to box throughout high school, he hopes to turn professional after graduation.

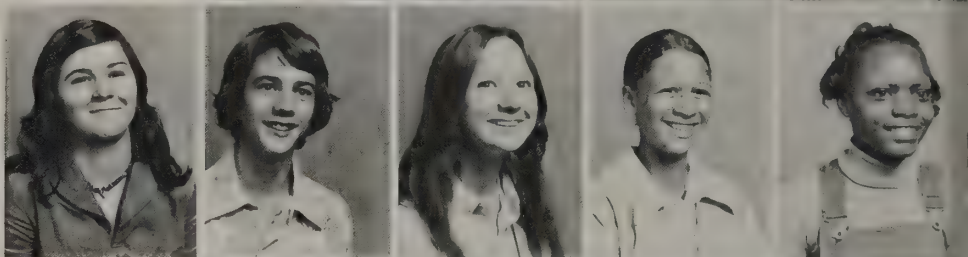

Looking ready for his next opponent, Ronnie Carter shows his skills.

WRIGHT "SHOWS" IT RIGHT

Saint Casey's Little Cricket, "Cricket" for short, is a Shetland sheep-dog owned by Suzanne Newman. Cricket is not your everyday dog—she's a show dog.

Suzanne has won the Best Junior Handler twice, once in each of her first two years. In addition to this award, she has also won first in the Novice Class, plus numerous ribbons.

Suzanne usually shows her dog in North Carolina and Virginia, traveling on weekends to the various showings. Cricket has a C.D.—Companion Dog—rating. Suzanne said that in order to get this rating, one must win the Novice three times. Suzanne and Cricket are in the Open Class now, having won the Companion Dog rating three times.

ADMINISTRATORS SET THE PACE

Each new school year involves a process of building. In most cases this process is simply a matter of adding to or improving on what has been done before; however, because we started a new school, we had first to lay a strong foundation. In order to do this each of us had to contribute his time and talents.

With everyone's creativity, interest, enthusiasm, and loyalty, we built a school that is known for its excellence in academics, athletics, activities, and school spirit.

NO. 1 BEAUTY

There's always something new and exciting going on in DECA. One fun money-making project was a male beauty contest. Students voted for their favorite teacher by dropping some money in a jar provided by DECA for each male teacher.

For one week the sounds of coins plunking into jars could be heard around Heritage. Finally, the winners were announced. Mr. Coleman, male beauty king, won the trophy, followed closely by Mr. Thomas, 2nd place, and Mr. Lambdin, 3rd place.

Approximately $200.00 was raised from the competition, which aided DECA members in financing a trip to Washington in May.

LEA CONTRIBUTES TO SCHOOL LIFE

Biologist, fisherman, hunter, gardener—these are some of the many interests of Mr. Fred Currence, biology teacher. He also finds time to take an active role in the Lynchburg Education Association. As one of three elected representatives from Heritage for '76-'77, he works with Mrs. Connie Campbell and Mrs. Verma Rivers.

LEA programs deal with "Helping Teachers Teach" and promoting improved education. One of the ongoing projects of the Association is the "Program of Action" which is submitted to the School Board annually. This program includes suggestions about everything from recommendations of class size to duty-free lunches.

With everyone working together, many things were accomplished this year by the LEA. It's good to know that our school representatives helped to bring about these changes.

MAKING THINGS GO

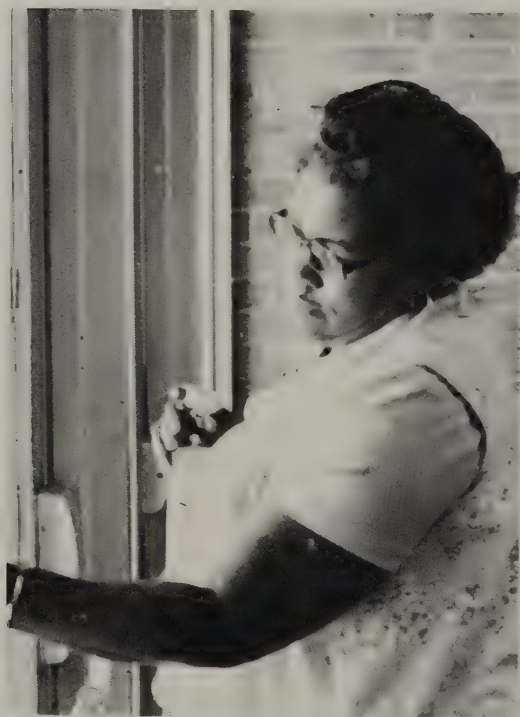

Sometimes we feel imposed upon if we have to make our own sandwiches for lunch. Imagine fixing lunch for fifteen hundred people every day!

Mrs. Farmer and her staff are so well-organized that they don't even seem rushed. They handle the volume of food, the good assortment, and the three-lunch schedule with less fuss than we make over having to put a piece of cheese between two slices of bread.

Another chore that we frequently balk over is having to clean our rooms. Multiply that one room we each hate tackling by twelve, plus hundreds of feet of hallways, the cafeteria, the shops, and the sidewalks, and we have an idea of the daily job facing the custodial staff.

Thanks to Mr. Murrell and his crew, the building is kept clean and in good shape for us to begin each new day.

Involved in one of his many daily routines, Mr. Patterson helps keep Heritage looking its best.

Window washing is a daily responsibility for Mrs. Dillard.

Knowing that cafeteria jokes are just in fun, Mrs. Mason gets ready to cook more French fries.

The lines seem endless as Mrs. Gentry and Mrs. Sandifer feed hungry students.

Keeping a supply of clean silver is one of Mrs. Barksdale's cafeteria duties.

Patrons . . . Our Favorite People

Lynchburg has in the last several decades entered an era of progress and economic growth that promises continued well-being for Central Virginia.

But being known as a hub of industry is a relative new posture for Lynchburg. For many years after John Lynch in 1757 started a ferry across the James River at the ancient ford where the Indian trails crossed, the area was predominantly agriculture in nature.

It was not until after the American Revolution that Lynch conceived the idea of laying out a village above his ferry at the foot of the present Ninth Street.

He divided a 45 acre track into lots and streets and applied to the legislature for a charter, which was granted in 1786 for the village of Lynchburg.

As the village began to take shape, tobacco was grown on the red hills of the area, eventually making it famous as "Tobacco City." The village was incorporated as a town in 1805 and then in 1851 was made made a city.

Today Lynchburg is blessed with great diversification in its manufactured goods and its standing as the industrial hub of Central Virginia is well-founded.

The foundations were laid with a giant shoe industry, foundries, pulp and paper mills, textile and garment factories, drug and medical supply firms. These, plus Lynchburg's two oldest industries—tobacco and milling, served as the economic framework as generations of leaders gradually added other industries.

Shop courses provide training for jobs in Lynchburg's expanding economy.

The recent dramatic industrial growth began in the 1950's and 1960's when several of the nation's largest corporations located plants in the city or area.

Now, such names as General Electric Co., Babcock & Wilcox Co., H.K. Porter Co., Weyergaeuser Co., Gould National Batteries, Inc., Limitorque Corp., E.F. Houghton & Co., Illinois Tool Works, Inc., Georgia-Pacific Corp., Meredith/Burda, Inc.—to mention just a few—are all a part of the industrial community.

Wedding Consultants of Lynchburg

Students perform an exercise in design, a skill which can help them compete in some areas of the local job market.

Thorough counseling is one of the services that enables students to make wise career choices. In addition to a concentrated career awareness program offered to sophomores, individual counseling, as with Mrs. Mosley and Marina Bowman, helps with subject choices.

Keeping in step with the growth of area industrial activities in the last three decades is retail trade. Numerous shopping centers have developed and Lynchburg's downtown has kept pace. Store interiors and exteriors have been modernized. New buildings have gone up and access to downtown has been made easier via the Lynchburg Expressway and the new Rivermont Avenue bridge.

Continuing the tradition of community involvement, many of the industrialists and retailers of the area have supported all phases of the Lynchburg Public School system. We appreciate the financial support represented on these pages and exceptional interest and support that Heritage High School has received in its first year of operation.

Media assistant Nancy Hawkins indexes new materials in the card catalog.

We've Started A Tradition

When we came to Heritage, we were all a little skeptical. Annexation had caused redistricting, so we came to the school to which we had been assigned; but we didn't like it. True, new letters had been attached to the building—Heritage High School—but we all knew this was really just old Sandusky Junior High.

Then, as the year went on, something happened. We developed pride. It's hard to say how this came about. Maybe it was because the administrators were always there—friendly but firm—knowing us and caring what happened to us. Maybe it was because the faculty viewed the year as a challenge—not caring that the building was too crowded—but caring that we learned what would be important to us. Maybe it was because we realized that new friends were as good as old friends and that it's not space or preconceived ideas that make a school.

However it happened, it was good. We became Heritage High School. We had a feeling of importance and destiny. We were proud of who we were and what we had accomplished.

Pep Club members Raye Hawkins, Susan Kee, and Cornell Campbell help promote school spirit by making banner to be displayed at game with Glass.

something happened

SCA President Susan Smith worked with committee that built and stocked a time capsule, which contained bits and pieces of memories of our first year at Heritage. Capsule will be opened at future date, revealing life as it "used to be."

along the way

Several years of planning, many months of pondering over decisions, countless days of attention to details—and a great deal of money. Work crews could now construct the building we had all waited for.

We Got It Together

As we went about the business of building a heritage, we were interested in the building of Heritage. The faculty toured the building in May and told us of its progress, and we were pleased to think of going into a new school—one of the best facilities in Virginia.

But it was with a sadness—gladness that we prepared to leave the old for the new. Some of us helped with the transition. We joined in a clean up day on Saturday, June 11, and swept the floors of the new building, aiding the carpet layers. And we moved cartons—

In May teachers got a sneak preview of the unfinished building. From the first-level cafeteria to the fifth-level administrative offices, there were interesting features and pleasant surprises.

we have built a heritage many cartons—on the last day of school, June 14, aiding the movers.

But beneath the “getting ready for the new” and the “moving out of the old” is a feeling of “it really doesn’t matter.” Because it really doesn’t matter where we are. We have established ourselves. We know who we are. Heritage High School has been built, and we have been a part of it.

Beautifully modern in construction, one of the main staircases takes shape. The building situated on a slope, allows ground-level access to almost all areas.

With Thanks . . .

We were in much the same situation as Heritage last August. We had an idea of what we wanted in a yearbook, just as we all had an idea of what we wanted in a high school; and each step was a new adventure.

None of us had any previous yearbook experience. Design, layout, copy, cropping—these were all new concepts to us. We expected it to be fun; but as we began to learn the procedures with Mrs. Wilson's help, we gradually came to understand that there was also a tremendous amount of work involved.

Since we wanted this first LEGACY to be one we could all be proud of, we soon realized we needed lots of outside help. Fortunately, the students and faculty were correctly named "Pioneers" because they proved to be the kind who would gladly "lend a hand." Without them we could never have gotten this book together.

School had just begun when Mrs. Caldwell offered to help with advice in design and art work. We wonder if she anticipated how often we would call on her time and expertise. Her students spent untold hours creating the art work used throughout the book: Cynthia Cash and Robin Butler drew the figures in the Academics/Organizations section, Lucy Jo Robinson designed the cover, and Dale Glasgow designed and executed the detailed "Building a Heritage" building blocks on the division pages.

Of course, taking and processing photographs is a major yearbook requirement. When Mr. Scott at Dunbar learned we had no darkroom facilities, he offered to process our film for us. For his "coming to the rescue," we make him an honorary "Pioneer." Mr. Lambdin became aware of our need, and he promoted the idea of a darkroom of our own. After getting administrative approval, he outfitted the room and then spent hundreds of hours—of his own time—processing LEGACY pictures, many of them taken for us by Mr. Dozier, Mr. Clark, Rod Anderson, and Harry Mitchell.

We occasionally had some design ideas we didn't know how to execute, so we turned to Mrs. Lavoie, our American Yearbook representative. She was patient and helpful in instructions, suggestions, and moral support. Each time we had that "coming unglued" feeling, she put us back together with her calm efficiency.

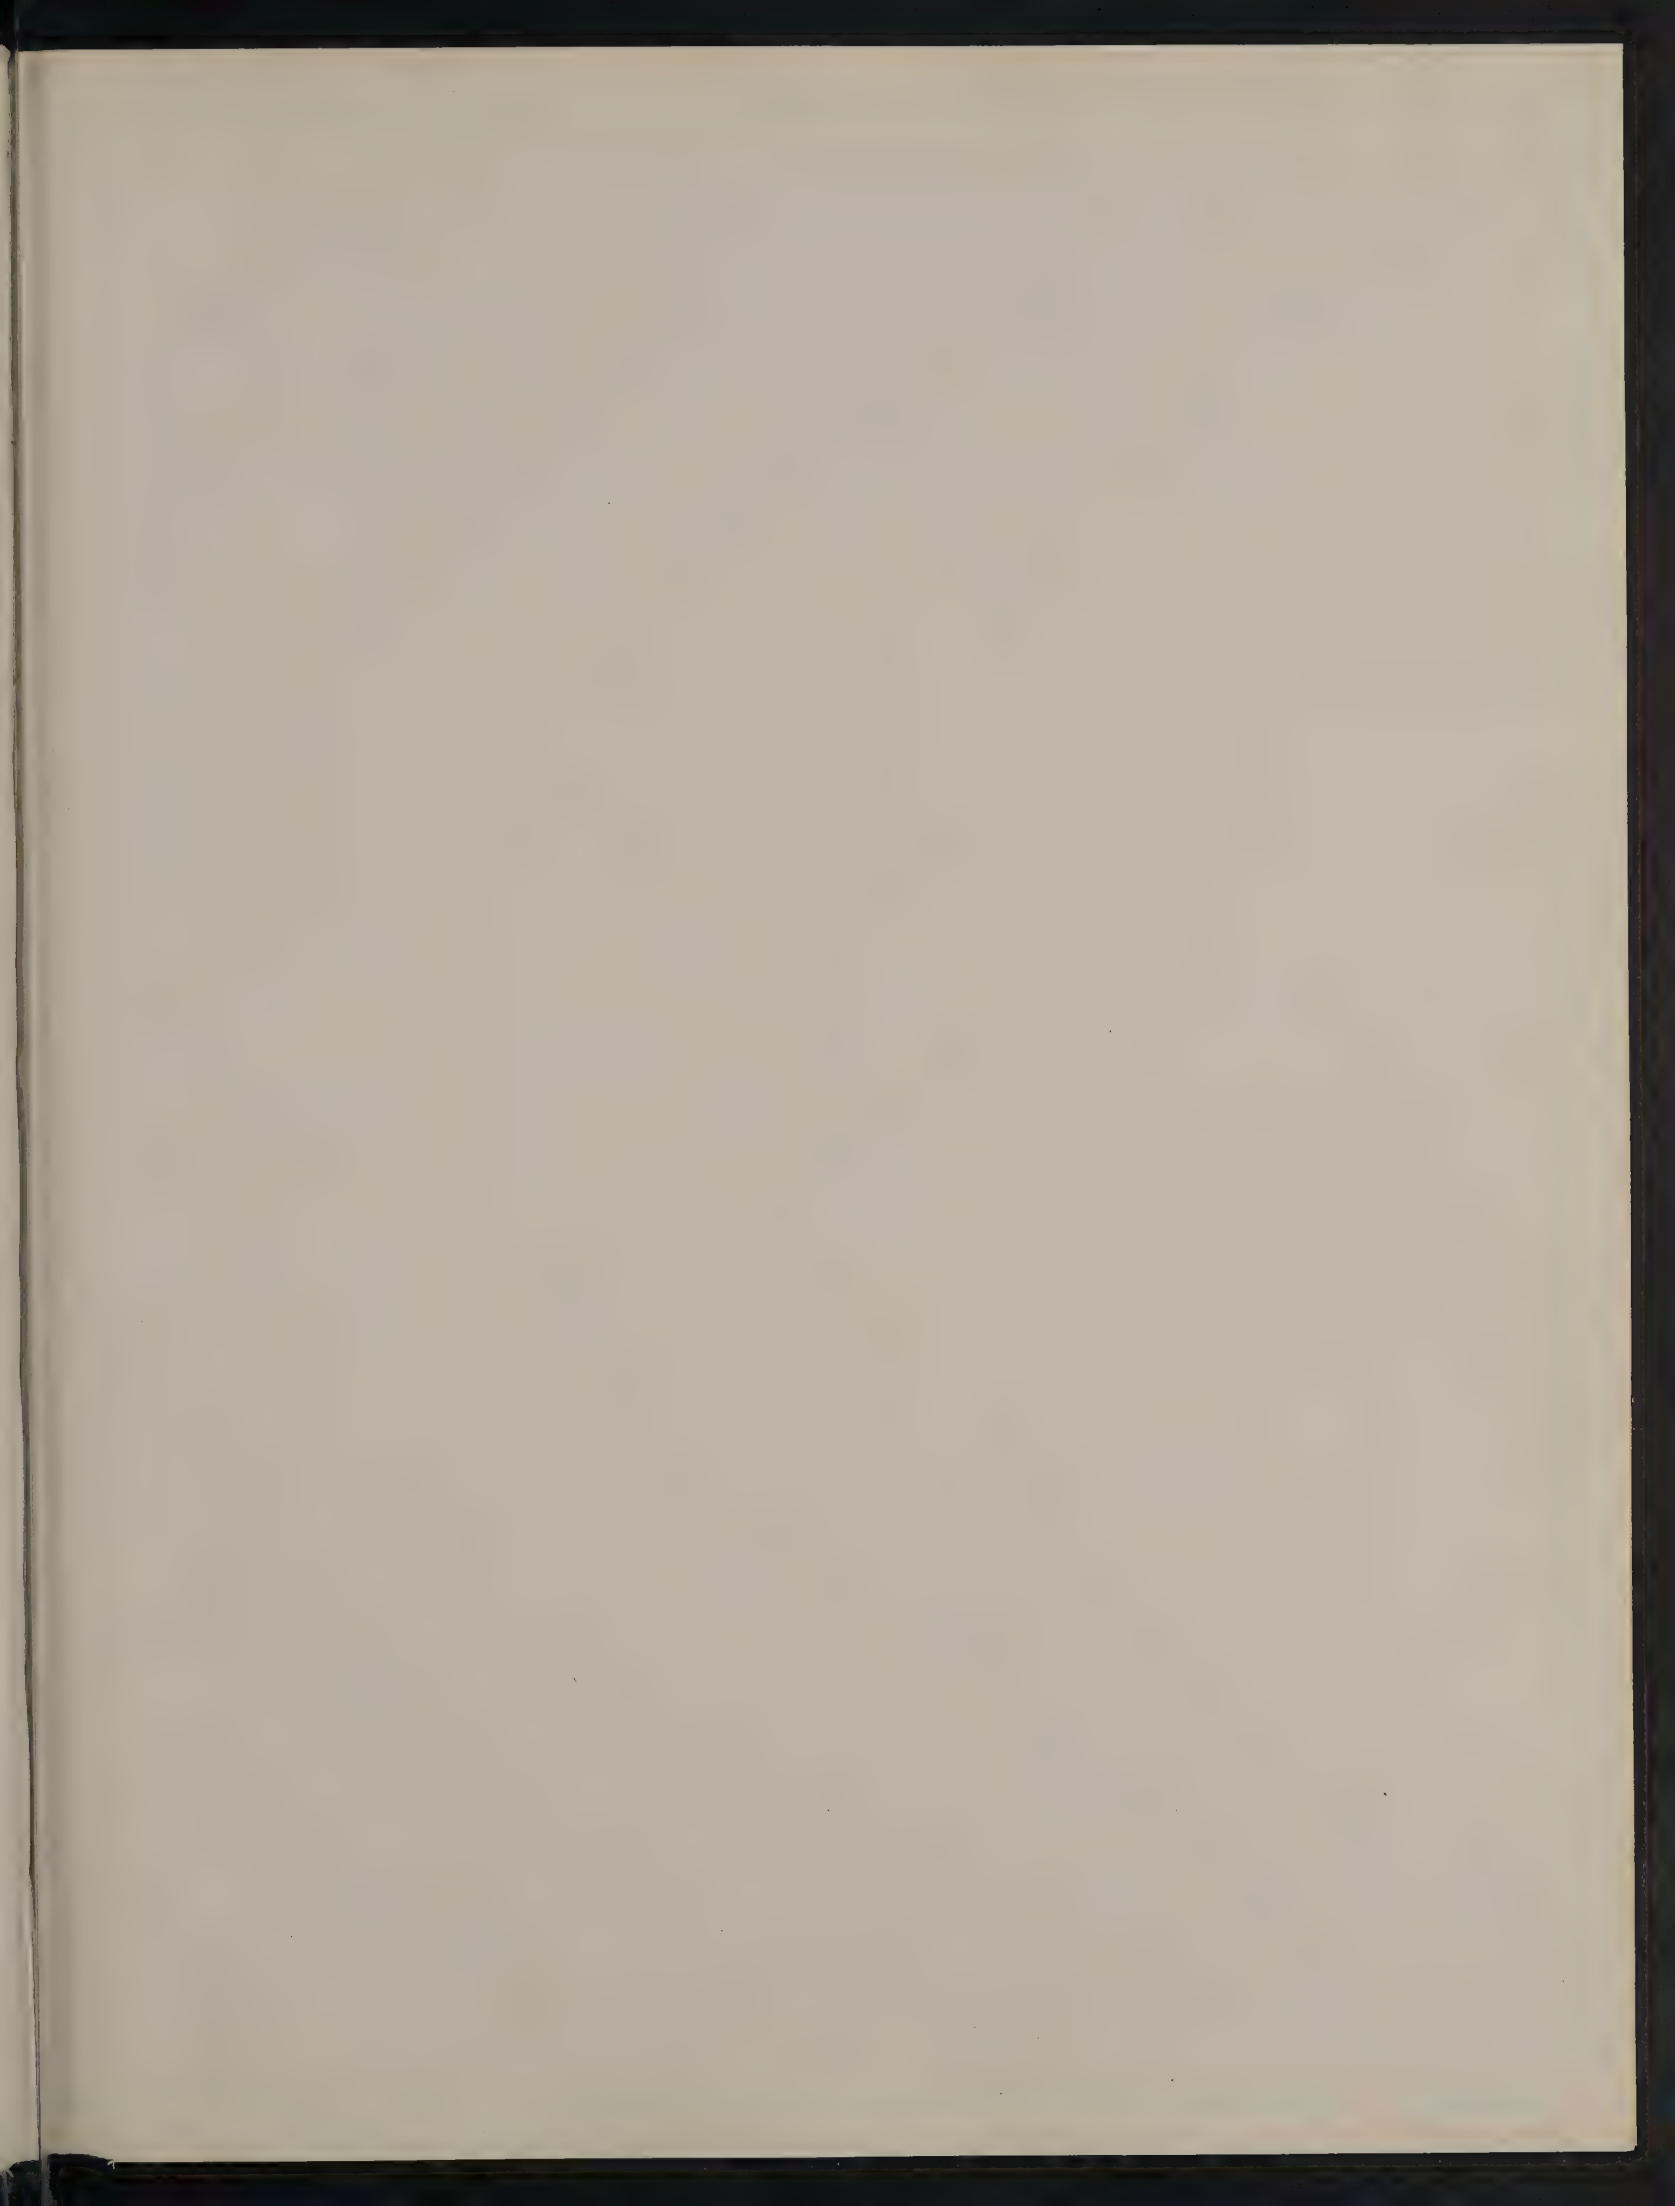

We hope this first LEGACY will give you pleasure. With thanks to each of you who helped us.

Kim,
I've just met you this year. We've had some good times this summer. Don't forget all those great looking L-mats ball players. How could you? I should say Winston-Salem players too! I know I won't forget one of them! Good luck with what ever you do. Have a good time with the boys! Be good Kim. If you can't be good... be good at it!

him, I'll write in a crazy place because... I bet you thought # was gonna say because I'm a crazy person but that's a wrong voice Kim,

It was alot of fun having you in my class. Remember all the fun times. Have fun next year. Hope to see you again. Good Luck!
